

Nixon Denies Okaying Payoffs

By Vote Of 69 to 28 . . .

Pay Raise Plan Dies In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Election-year pay raises for Congress members, federal judges and top executive branch officials were voted down by the Senate Wednesday.

A resolution of disapproval carried by a 69 to 28 vote.

No action by the House is necessary. The Senate vote was enough to kill the salary increases President Nixon had included in the budget he submitted to Congress.

Leading supporters of the pay raises said many of their Senate colleagues had told them privately they agreed with them but were unable to vote with them.

They key vote was on substituting the resolution of disapproval for one the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee had recommended providing for killing only the congressional salary increases.

Once the substitute was adopted, the final vote on passage was 72 to 26.

The Senate cleared the way earlier in the day for the showdown by voting 67 to 31, one more than the required two-thirds majority, to put its debate limitation-rule into effect.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, who had threatened to filibuster against the resolution of disapproval, protested that the debate cutoff was ordered before the Senate had a chance to consider compromises he intended to offer.

But Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., did get a vote on a proposal to cut only senators out of the pay raises. It was rejected 80 to 18.

Under a 1967 law, the pay raises Nixon proposed of 7.5 per cent for three years would automatically have taken effect at midnight Saturday unless disapproved by the Senate or the House.

The increases were less than recommended to the President by a special commission provided for by the 1967 law as a way of removing from Congress the setting of its own pay.

But the law hasn't worked as intended, and after the vote Republican Leader Hugh Scott said, "We failed to do justice for others because we feared to do justice for ourselves."

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., opposed to the pay raises, said that members of Congress don't have to keep their jobs if they don't like their $42,500 salaries.

The President's budget provided for increasing congressional pay to $45,700 this year, $49,100 next year, and $52,800 in 1976, with comparable raises for federal judges and top-level executive branch officials.

Curtis, Hruska Vote Against Pay Raises

Washington (UPI) — Nebraska Republican Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska were among those voting to reject a proposed congressional pay raise. The resolution was voted down 69 to 28.

Regional Center Hit By Hepatitis

. . . Officials Blamed For Spread Of Disease

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A group of employees at the Lincoln Regional Center is blaming an outbreak of hepatitis in the extended care unit on the administration's failure to cooperate with efforts to keep certain wards clean.

A state health official confirmed that at least three cases of serum and infectious hepatitis have been identified at the unit but said he does not feel the administration is particularly at fault.

Dr. Paul Stoez, head of disease control for the State Health Department, said from what he has seen sanitation is "perfectly adequate."

"I realize the pressure they (the administration) are under out there, and I'm not sure it's all warranted," Dr. Stoez said. The employees contacted suspect there are actually five cases of hepatitis and are fearful they will contract the disease.

The employees, who asked to remain anonymous for fear of being "blackballed," said they have asked for gamma globulin shots, medical exams for suspected carriers of hepatitis and improved sanitation conditions in certain wards where mentally-retarded residents are not toilet-trained.

Except for limited clean up, the employees, most of whom are technicians, said their pleas have fallen on deaf ears.

A spokesman for the regional center, Dr. L. J. Baer, defended the administration's record and said the staff has embarked on a clean-up campaign.

Dr. Baer said the last case of hepatitis was discovered over three weeks ago, indicating perhaps the outbreak is under control.

Dr. Baer said two residents suffering from infectious hepatitis have been isolated and "are doing beautifully." The one employee who contacted serum hepatitis last August is still on a leave of absence, he said.

Dr. Baer said the wards in question have been relocated in the unit, more employees have been hired to keep the areas clean and disinfectant and plastic gloves are given employees.

Disinfectant and plastic gloves were of particular concern to those employees interviewed.

"Our main gripe is the sanitary conditions there," one woman said. "We spend more time cleaning up their body wastes than we do working with them."

"The place is like a dungeon, and the patients can be dangerous. I've been punched and scratched. You wouldn't want your wife working under those conditions," she said.

At one time, the woman said, there were no paper towels, toilet paper, plastic gloves or disinfectant for the technicians' use.

"We mentioned it to the supervisor, but she didn't pay any attention to us," she said. "We practically have to beg for gloves to clean patients."

Dr. Baer acknowledged that it is a "24-hour a day job to keep them clean" but he said cleaning materials have always been available to technicians.

At the advice of the State Health Department's disease control division, the center's staff has made limited use of gamma globulin shots and blood tests.

Dr. Stoez said it would be "futile" to administer gamma globulin shots to all employees and residents because there is no way of grading the degree of exposure to the disease.

"This is more of an educational problem than an epidemic problem," Dr. Stoez said. He said employees need to be advised of certain precautions, such as washing hands with a disinfectant, to halt the spread.

He said the occurrence of hepatitis has been random and the disease is not indigenous to the regional center.

"If, say, six people out of 50 on a floor came down with hepatitis, don't worry we'd be out there," Dr. Stoez said.

"Thus far, we've been in touch all the way with the administration. They've been more than cooperative."

The one employee who has been out of work with hepatitis since August has not been receiving workmen's compensation and has turned to the county welfare office for help.

Chet Huntley's Cancer Battle 'A Roll Of Dice'

Helena, Mont. (AP) — Former television newscaster Chet Huntley says his fight against lung cancer is "a roll of the dice."

"The doctors seem to be not without hope," said Huntley, 62, in a telephone interview. "They tell me I'm doing very well with it, but you never know. It's a roll of the dice."

Wallace Says His Race Ideas Misunderstood

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace — once a symbol of resistance to racial integration — says his stand on race has been misunderstood.

Is Someone Trying To Tell You Something While You Dream?

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Can a sleeping person receive a mental image in the form of a dream, sent by another person that's awake?

Dr. Montague Ullman, a pioneer in psychic research, says yes, dream telepathy can be done.

But he told a University of Nebraska-Lincoln audience of about 150 Wednesday that although scientists are increasingly recognizing the legitimacy of investigating parapsychology, little conclusive is known yet about it, even after more than a decade of intense study.

Ullman, psychiatry department director of Maimonides Medical Center, New York City, said the center established a dream laboratory in 1962 to conduct dream telepathy experiments.

The claim that events are foretold in dreams, he said, is supported by "many well-documented, well-supported descriptions," including those from the Maimonides lab.

Ullman said his interest in learning if dreams could stem from telepathic messages began in the mid-1940s, because all reported cases had been dismissed by scientists as "non-repeatable, non-controllable and episodic."

The break, he said, came in the 1950s with the advent of sleep-dream monitoring equipment, such as eye-movement recording devices and the electroencephalograph (EEG), which measures variations in brain wave patterns.

"We spend approximately 100 minutes a night dreaming," Ullman said, transcribing the episodes would result in "20 to 40 pages of creative productions that you're capable of every night."

Based on that idea, he said he and a group of analysts "brought the telepathic dream into the lab."

In the dream lab, Ullman said a sender selects at random a picture, then concentrates on sending it to a sleeping person in a soundproof room.

The sender tries to increase his telepathic projection by writing down associations he feels about the picture and using "multi-sensory equipment" relevant to the content of the picture and used to act it out.

"We have completed 12 such studies," Ullman said, "nine of which were statistically significant." Disinterested expert judges analyzed the pictures and the receivers' dreamed perceptions, tape-recorded upon awakening. The judges, coincidence ratings, he said, would have occurred no more than once in a thousand.

For example, one sender mentally transmitted a picture of a boxing match with Joe Lewis falling through the ropes; the sender used a boxing glove to act out the action. The receiver dreamed he was in Madison Square Garden, where there was action and motion, and got into a fight over getting tickets.

Ullman said in many of the experiments, receivers correctly identified parts of the pictures, including some actual content such as figures, their form and hue; motion and direction. Other times symbolic descriptions of the receivers' dreams coincided with emotion displayed in the picture — aggression, for example.

Maimonides researchers have tried, with limited success, to send images over distances, one from Boston to Brooklyn, another from London to New York, he said.

Now, he said, dream telepathy researchers are trying to "generate a precognitive dream in the lab — a dream about an event that has not yet happened."

On Inside Pages

saying campaigns "should be financed by the candidates and not the taxpayers." He said one part of his campaign reform package would be an attempt to give candidates a way to defend themselves against unfair criticism by their opponents or the press.

In his discussion of the indictment of Haldeman, Nixon said other persons might reach a different conclusion in reading a transcript or listening to a tape recording of the White House conversation last March 21.

But Nixon said he knows what was said and what he meant about payoffs for the silence of the Watergate defendants.

"In fact, I think I can quote it directly," he said. "I said, 'It is wrong, that's for sure.'"

Nixon said Haldeman and John W. Dean III, the former White House counsel, were present when he made that statement.

Whatever judgment others may reach, Nixon said, "I know what I meant and I also know what I did."

"I meant that the whole transaction was wrong," he said.

"I never at any time authorized clemency for any of the defendants," Nixon said. "I never at any time authorized the payment of money for any of the defendants."

The President also said he does not intend to offer clemency to former aides now facing conviction in connection with Watergate.

Later, the President said he was not flatly ruling out clemency "to any individual depending on a personal tragedy or something of that sort."

"What I'm saying is that I will not be granting clemency because of Watergate," he said. "That I'm ruling out."

Before starting to respond to questions about the Watergate scandal, Nixon opened the session by saying that the Senate, by sustaining his veto of an emergency energy bill, had "vetoed longer gas lines and vetoed nationwide rationing."

Asked if consumers should cut down on their spending this year because of inflation, Nixon said two major factors have caused it — energy and food.

As the nation goes toward mid-year, he said, the prices of energy will be kept in check and possibly come down.

If the weather is good, he said, record crops will come in this year and that will tend to bring food prices under control.

Nixon repeated that there will not be a recession this year.

Asked about the off-year congressional elections, Nixon said Watergate might have had an impact on the result.

Legislature Accepts State Pay Hike Plan

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

By voice vote, the Legislature Wednesday accepted its Appropriations Committee's proposal to give all state employees a 5% salary hike plus $300 in cost-of-living benefits during the coming fiscal year.

The salary plan, which also increases state agency salary budgets by an extra one-half percent to fund merit pay hikes, was attached by amendment to a budget bill funding 57 agencies.

Lawmakers adjourned for the day after Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff had gained approval for $600,000 in additions to expand the state auditor's staff, fund the Nebraska State Guard and increase local and regional library financing.

Carpenter had other amendments pending when senators quit for the day.

The bill, LB997, was first considered on the floor last month, but had been held up while the Appropriations Committee reached a final decision on salary recommendations.

The measure carried a preliminary price tag of $69.6 million, including $29.7 million in state tax support.

Before Wednesday, the major floor addition had been $1.5 million in emergency funds which may be needed to combat potential spring flooding on the Platte River.

The new salary plan — which was substituted for an original proposal for 5% pay hikes plus a 1½% salary budget addition to fund merit increases — added $679,087 in costs to the bill, including $478,201 in state general fund money.

Sen. Dave Stahmer of Omaha, a Democratic candidate for auditor, supported the amendment.

Carpenter added $100,000 to the Military Department's budget, and earmarked $105,000 for organizing, equipping and maintaining the State Guard, a backup force for the National Guard which, he said, is needed if and when the National Guard is mobilized into federal service.

Earmarking is also included for funding of what Carpenter said is now an underfunded Air National Guard.

Carpenter added nearly $300,000 to the Nebraska Library Commission, with $200,000 earmarked for development of local libraries and $97,338 targeted for expansion of regional library services.

All amendments were approved on voice vote.

Among pending Carpenter proposals is a $14,000 item to provide the Mexican-American Commission with an attorney.

French diplomatic sources challenged the State Department's assertion that the Common Market failed to consult the United States before making a broad offer of cooperation with Arab countries. And government-inspired press comment indicated that a war of words has broken out among the western allies.

Policy Toward France Re-Examined

Washington — High administration officials said the government has begun to re-examine its policy toward France in light of what it regards as French attempts to separate the European Common Market from the United States. Though Secretary of State Kissinger reportedly wants to avoid a confrontation that would force Europe to choose between the United States and France, he is apparently anticipating developments that would

Nixon Says He's Willing To Answer Questions Under Oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Wednesday night he is willing to be questioned under oath by leaders of the House committee studying whether to recommend his impeachment.

He said such a meeting could come if the House Judiciary Committee is not satisfied with sworn answers to its written questions "in order to bring the matter to . . . complete and early conclusion."

The President's statement at a broadcast news conference went beyond what his Watergate attorney, James D. St. Clair, said earlier in the day at a hearing in U.S. District Court.

St. Clair had told the court that the President would make available to the House Judiciary Committee all the materials he had already turned over to the Watergate grand juries and would take written questions from the committee if it asked.

After hearing from lawyers for the defendants, the White House, the committee and the special prosecutor's office, Sirica took the matter under advisement. There was no indication when he would rule on the matter.

During a recess, St. Clair told newsmen there would be no objection to Nixon's talking to the committee members under oath. But he appeared to back off the statement at the end of the court day, saying he was referring to the answers to written questions.

Nixon was clear on the matter. In the event the replies to the questions are not satisfactory, Nixon said, "the President will be glad to answer questions of members of the committee — perhaps the chairman and ranking minority member — to answer further questions under oath that they may have."

If that is not satisfactory, both the President and St. Clair said, the President would meet with committee leaders, perhaps the chairman and ranking minority member.

The hearing was called by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to determine what disposition he should make of a secret grand jury report returned Friday with the indictments of seven former White House and campaign aides of the President's.

Such a meeting would not be a cross-examination but an interview, St. Clair said, adding: "I'm sure the committee would be satisfied."

He contemplated that the meeting would take place at the White House with perhaps only the chairman and the ranking minority member present.

The Judiciary Committee will meet Thursday to receive St. Clair's formal response.

St. Clair told newsmen the material to be turned over to the committee would be everything given to the three grand juries hearing Watergate and related matters.

Some members of the committee said they might still press for a subpoena to obtain additional materials not on the list of items furnished to the grand jury, should the President choose not to release them.

At the hearing, it was disclosed — for the first time publicly — that the grand jury asked that the material it gathered in 20 months of investigation be forwarded to the impeachment inquiry.

And it was disclosed by an assistant prosecutor that the secret grand jury report is not accusatory in nature.

Lawyers from executive, legislative and judicial branches argued whether Sirica should turn over the report to the House inquiry.

The White House said it took no position on the matter since it was turning over the materials anyway; the special prosecutor asked that the grand jury's recommendation be followed and the report be given to the committee; lawyers for seven men indicted by the grand jury last Friday opposed its transmission.

Sears Testifies Mitchell Interceded For R. Vesco

NEW YORK (AP) — Former presidential adviser John Ehrlichman as well as the then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell interceded on behalf of financier Robert L. Vesco, a jury was told Wednesday at the criminal conspiracy trial of the former Cabinet member.

Government witness Harry L. Sears was testifying about a Jan. 12 1972 meeting he had set with Mitchell.

Mitchell is on trial with former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans on charges of impeding a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco in return for a $200,000 contribution by the international financier to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

"... I had talked to Mr. Mitchell on the telephone," Sears testified, "and he had inquired of me about a memorandum he got from John Ehrlichman in which he asked Mr. Mitchell to make some calls to various embassies on Mr. Vesco's behalf."

Sears said Mitchell apparently wasn't aware of exactly what was wanted of him and asked Sears to bring some details to the Jan. 12 meeting.

In response, Sears furnished Mitchell with a memorandum at the meeting in which the wish was expressed that various American embassies be contacted in cities where Vesco had corporate investments, and be told that the financier was "a reputable American citizen."

Referring to the Jan. 12 meeting in Mitchell's Justice Department office, Sears said: "I told him Bob Vesco not only supported me, he supported the President, and was close to members of the Nixon family."

IRS Revokes Ruling In ITT Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. said Wednesday the Internal Revenue Service had revoked retroactively a ruling that allowed ITT to acquire Hartford Fire Insurance Co. in a tax-free 1970 stock exchange.

ITT said it would go to court promptly to challenge the revocation.

In a statement issued several hours after ITT disclosed the revocation, the conglomerate said it was "in complete disagreement with the action" and was "firmly of the opinion that the tax-free nature of the exchange would be sustained in court."

ITT also said it was "satisfied that the revocation of the rulings will not affect the Hartford acquisition."

Financial experts have speculated that revoking the tax-free status could mean former Hartford stockholders or ITT would become liable for deferred capital gains taxes ranging from $30 million to well over $100 million. The merger of the companies was the largest in the nation's history.

ITT's initial disclosure of the ruling was in a one-sentence announcement, with the firm saying it needed a fuller explanation from the government before commenting. The fuller statement was issued in mid-evening.

In Washington, the IRS would only confirm that it has revoked the 1969 decisions relating to the merger. It referred questioners to the ITT statement.

ITT requested that trading in its stock be halted pending an explanation of the IRS decision. The stock, which had hit a 1973-74 peak of $60.37 1/2 a share, was trading at $27.87 1/2 on the New York Stock Exchange just before the halt.

The giant conglomerate acquired Hartford Fire in 1970 in a $1 billion exchange of stock. Under the IRS ruling, Hartford stockholders didn't have to pay immediate capital gains taxes when they exchanged their old Hartford shares for new ITT shares.

Senate Upholds Fuel Bill Veto

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon Wednesday vetoed the emergency energy bill as threatening to force gasoline rationing. The veto was sustained in the Senate, but an immediate move was mounted there to push through a "bare bones" version that Nixon would approve.

In rejecting the compromise energy legislation, which had been before Congress since late last year, Nixon said he objected chiefly to a provision to roll back crude oil prices.

The Senate promptly took up a move to override the veto which, on a 58-40 vote, fell 8 votes short of the needed two-thirds majority.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chief architect of the emergency bill, called the President's action "arbitrary and capricious." He said he would confer with key House members on a "bare bones" substitute containing gasoline rationing authority, mandatory conservation measures, easing antitrust regulations to allow energy-saving cooperation, and unemployment benefits for those losing jobs because of the energy crunch.

In debate before the Senate vote on the veto override, Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., said "consumers will end up paying more, not less for fuel" under the bill's provisions.

Fannin supported Nixon's contention that a crude oil price rollback would discourage new domestic exploration for oil while increasing demand — and long waiting lines — at the gasoline pump.

Other administration supporter, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said: "I say let the marketplace work its will."

After the vote, Jackson said that although he would try for energy legislation the President might accept, he planned to offer a separate bill to roll back prices.

As Jackson spoke, the House approved a price rollback nearly identical to that in the vetoed bill as an amendment to legislation creating a Federal Energy Administration. The parent bill was expected to reach a final floor vote Thursday.

Besides authorizing Nixon to take a vast array of energy-saving steps, including rationing, lower highway speed limits and easing of antipollution standards, the bill would have imposed an effective ceiling of $7.09 a barrel on the wellhead price of newly produced domestic crude oil.

Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., complained that Nixon was either misinformed or misleading the public, because oil companies had said they could explore and develop new oil sources for less than the proposed $7.09 ceiling.

The House was considered even less likely than the Senate to override Nixon's veto.

"After all the hearings and speeches, all the investigations, accusations and recriminations," Nixon said, "the Congress has succeeded only in producing legislation that solves none of the problems, threatens to undo the progress we have already made and creates a host of new problems."

"The amendments, counteramendments and parliamentary puzzles which have marked the stumbling route of this bill through the Congress must make Americans wonder what has been going on in Washington while they confront their own very real problems."

In other energy-related developments:

—The Labor Department said the number of persons seeking or receiving unemployment benefits for jobs they claimed were lost because of the energy shortage rose to 292,400 last week.

—Arab oil sources in Beirut said Libya had not yet replied to an Egyptian request for a meeting of Arab oil ministers Sunday in Tripoli, but they expressed the belief the meeting would be held anyway.

The meeting was called to discuss the possibility of lifting an oil embargo against the United States.

Demos Hail Victory As Favorable Omen

By The Associated Press

Democrats hailed their party's victory in a special Ohio congressional election as an omen of sweeping victories in November, while Republicans said a reverse outcome in California shows the Watergate handicap can be overcome.

The victory of Democrat Thomas A. Luken Tuesday in a Cincinnati district that had elected a Democrat only three other times in this century brought the Democratic cheers.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Ohio, chairman of the House Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said Wednesday the country would be better off if Gerald R. Ford replaced President Nixon in the White House.

However, two other Republicans, Washington's Daniel J. Evans and Michigan's William G. Milliken, said it is important for the congressional impeachment investigation to proceed so the country can learn the whole story of Nixon's possible involvement in the Watergate scandal.

Their comments came as the Republican setbacks in three special congressional elections.

At the White House, spokesman Gerald L. Warren said, "We are of course very pleased with Mr. Lagomarsino's victory in California. The Republican appt should not be discouraged about the very close race in Ohio." Unofficial tallies gave Lukens 52 per cent of the vote.

Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio, a Democrat, said of the outcome in his state, "I think it is essentially the performance of the Nixon administration, Watergate, the economy and the energy crisis."

Governors Urge Replacing Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts and several Democratic colleagues said Wednesday the country would be better off if Gerald R. Ford replaced President Nixon in the White House.

Republican Says 'Victory For Me'

By The Associated Press

Republican Robert J. Lagomarsino of California said Wednesday his election to Congress was a personal triumph — not a victory for the GOP or President Nixon. Democrat Thomas A. Luken of Ohio, the other winner in Tuesday's special elections, said his success showed that people were concerned about the administration.

The contests were the third and fourth special elections this year. Democrats won the two earlier seats, including the one formerly held by Vice President Gerald Ford.

Lagomarsino, 47, got 53 per cent of the total vote cast in California's 13th Congressional District and avoided a runoff with any of his seven Democratic opponents.

"We have not said this should be considered a victory for the party or the President," Lagomarsino commented. "It was a victory for me."

In Ohio's 1st District, where Nixon got 67 per cent of the vote in 1972, Luken, 48, scored an upset over Republican Willis D. Gradison Jr., becoming only the fourth Democratic representative from the district this century. He won with an unofficial count of 55,171-51,057 as about 51 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots.

Luken downplayed Watergate in his campaign, stressing the economy as a major issue. But all the elections have been carefully watched by national party leaders as barometers of public sentiment over the scandal.

"I believe the voters of the 1st District of Ohio have expressed their concern about the nature of this administration and our society," said Luken, who filled a seat vacated when Republican William Keating resigned to become president of the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Gradison called Watergate "one of many factors."

Lagomarsino fills the seat of the late Rep. Charles M. Teague, a Republican who represented the area for 19 years.

The unofficial ballot counting gave Lagomarsino 53,078 votes. The nearest opponent, Ojai Mayor James Loebel, had 18,791. The rest of the Democratic field got 27,834 votes.

Lagomarsino said his election was "an indication that people will vote for a Republican if they think he is the best man."

Democrats taking a similar position included Govs. Wendell Ford of Kentucky and Jimmy Carter of Georgia.

Carter said southerners have great respect for the presidential office. "That's why I'm so disgusted with the way Nixon has disgraced it," he said. "I'm for impeachment if there's not a quicker way."

End Of Depletion Allowance Backed

Washington (UPI) — The ranking Republican member of the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday gave his support to a plan to end the oil depletion allowance, virtually assuring a committee vote to phase out the much-criticized tax advantage.

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., said during a committee session on energy taxes that he would support a proposal by Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., to phase out the depletion allowance over seven years.

"What the country wants is an end to depletion," Schneebeli said.

The depletion allowance gives oil companies the right to deduct 22% of gross income from oil properties for tax purposes.

The normally conservative tax-writing committee showed surprising support for a phaseout of the depletion allowance, which likely would be accompanied by a temporary windfall profits tax.

The two proposals together would cost oil companies an estimated $2 billion or more per year, although the companies may be allowed to pour back into exploration a portion of the windfall profits tax. This tax would phase out over five years.

The only question appeared to be how quickly the allowance would be phased out, whether five or seven years.

"A straight seven-year phaseout is the best the petroleum companies can ask for," said acting committee chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore.

In addition to the depletion-windfall profits tax proposal, the committee is considering a cut in many tax advantages enjoyed by U.S. oil companies operating in foreign countries.

British Miners Win Demands

©The New York Times

London — The new Labor government and the leaders of the striking coal miners reached an agreement Wednesday night on a pay offer that virtually met their full demands.

The settlement, worked out in 12 hours of talks, means the end of one of the most damaging disputes in years. With a wage increase of 35%, the miners were expected to go back to work early next week, probably Monday.

With their return to work, Prime Minister Harold Wilson will move to end the three-day work week which has crippled most of British industry for more than two months and led to lost wages, production and vital exports. Edward Heath, the former prime minister whose Tories were defeated in last week's election, had ordered power-saving measures because of the shortage of coal.

It was thus the end of a dispute that caused not only incalculable harm to the country but also brought down a prime minister. Heath, fighting to defend his policy of wage controls, decided to go to the country for a "strong" mandate of support rather than yield to the miners' demands.

Wednesday, the jubilant miners were assured of more than double the offer made under Heath, who had argued before the election that he could not go beyond 16.5%.

The legal restraints so staunchly defended by the Conservatives went out the window to make way for the agreement. It was the most generous pay award ever won by the miners.

The settlement will mean increases of $15 a week, from $58 to $73, for the lower-paid men on the surface; and of $37 a week, from $85 to $122, for the miners working nights at the coal face. They will make more with overtime and other benefits.

Smokers Must Sit In Back Of Bus

(c) Washington Star-News
Washington — Smokers are to be banished to the back of the bus on long-distance trips as a result of an order issued Wednesday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The order, which goes into effect March 22, prohibits smoking in all but the rear 20% of the seats on interstate buses. It does not apply to municipal transit or charter buses.

The ICC said it was restricting cigarette, cigar and pipe users because of charges that "smoking on buses creates serious health hazards to those passengers who are non-smokers."

A similar rule affecting non-commuter passenger trains will go into effect April 1, an ICC spokesman said. It will require Amtrak and other long-haul passenger train operators to provide smoking cars.

Last year the Civil Aeronautics Board ordered airlines to divide passenger compartments into smoking and nonsmoking sections.

56 Iraqi Soldiers Said Killed In Border Fights

By The Associated Press

Two days of border fighting between Iraq and Iran have taken the lives of 56 Iraqi soldiers, including six officers, the Iranian government radio reported Wednesday.

The official Iranian Pars news agency also reported continued sporadic shelling by Iraqi heavy artillery.

An Iranian tribesman was killed and eight members of his family were wounded in shelling near the border village of Zinal-Kush on Tuesday night, the agency said.

There was no immediate comment from Iraq.

At United Nations headquarters in New York Iran accused Iraq of "continuing its unprovoked acts of hostility" in defiance of a Security Council appeal last week for restraint. In a letter to the president of the council, Iranian Ambassador Fereydoun Holveyda said the Iraqis had returned fire in self-defense.

Iraq and Iran in government communiques have accused each other of shooting first in the fighting that flared Monday and Tuesday.

In Israel a 65-day deadlock over formation of a new government was broken when quarreling Labor party leaders announced agreement on a Cabinet headed again by Premier Golda Meir. The state radio attributed the reconciliation to tension on the Syrian border.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who reversed his earlier refusal to serve in the new government, flew to the Golan Heights front with Syria.

Syrian President Hafez Assad was quoted in a magazine interview as saying the Soviet Union is pressing him to attend Arab-Israeli peace talks in Geneva. The Beirut magazine As Sayyad reported Assad added, "But we shall go to the Geneva conference only when tangible progress is achieved on the question of military disengagement between Syria and Israel in the Golan Heights."

Streiking In Alaska Brief, Viewers Say

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Streiking has turned up on a campus some people thought might be immune — the University of Alaska.

A band of 16 naked students were seen fleeing through a dormitory complex Wednesday morning.

The streak was brief, observers reported. The temperature on campus was 8 below zero.

Chrysler Corp. Is Calling Back 826,000 Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Some 826,000 Chrysler Corp. cars and trucks were ordered recalled Wednesday to replace a faulty antipollution device that allowed an illegally high level of nitrogen oxides in exhausts.

Covered by the recall were all 1973-model Chrysler cars and light duty trucks built after March 15, 1973, plus about 1,000 light-duty trucks assembled at the beginning of the 1974 model run.

Orders for the recall came from Russell E. Train, administrator of the federal Environmental Protection Agency. He said the defect was voluntarily reported by Chrysler.

The defect allowed the release of nitrogen oxides between 15 and 60 per cent in excess of the three-gram-a-mile limit set by the Clean Air Act of 1970, Train said.

Chrysler would not estimate the cost of the recall program, but said temperature sensing devices costing about $2 each would be replaced.

Curtis, Hruska Vote To Table Measure

Washington (AP) — Nebraska Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis voted with the minority Tuesday as the Senate tabled an amendment to the minimum wage bill to repeal wage and price controls.

By tabling, the Senate killed the amendment. The vote was 66-28.

620,000 Jobless

Nuerneberg, Germany (AP) — The number of unemployed persons in West Germany was 620,200 in February, down slightly from 620,500 in January but up from 347,100 in February a year ago, the Federal Labor Office reported.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

BY WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Strange things continue to be noticed in the news, and not just the unseasonably warm weather we have been enjoying lately. This week, for instance, the Associated Press reported that a typical foodbasket of groceries bought in March of 1974 costs 16% more than the same things bought in March of 1973.

It is little wonder that people look with consternation on a reported 8% increase in the cost of living for 1973. While that would be a hefty hike in the cost of living, many householders have the feeling that things have gone up much more rapidly.

The report on the price of groceries confirms this. People find it confirmed for themselves when they do such essential things as buy clothing, paint the house or get an appliance repaired. The 8% may be the official line on the economy but it is hard to believe in light of practical, everyday experience.

Getting more into the area of public affairs, one might take a look at the Legislature. While it has its share of proud moments, there are times and circumstances when the electorate must scratch its collective head and wonder what in the world is going on.

In what might be classed as a strange category is a vote in the Legislature overriding a gubernatorial veto of a $221,420 drug control bill. One of the leaders in the override effort was Sen. Terry Carpenter and voting with him was Sen. Richard Marvel, both of whom have championed an 11% rather than a 13% income tax for Nebraska for 1974.

Need comes ahead of the veto, Carpenter admonished his colleagues. And what does Senator Carpenter intend to do about the other needs of the state in light of the 11% income tax?

Are he and Marvel going to continue to vote for the needs of the state and, if so, how do they intend to finance them? The two of them certainly constitute an incredible contradiction.

Another strange bit of information you might have noticed has to do with the energy crisis. In reports on the expected lifting of the Middle East oil embargo, it was said that, additionally, the price of crude oil is expected to drop from $11.66 to about $7 a barrel, which unnamed government experts said would still be too high.

Yet, it is on an effective price of a little more than $7 a barrel that President Nixon has now based his veto of the newly passed energy conservation bill. A $7 price in the Middle East is not low enough but a $7 price for U.S. oil companies is not high enough.

Either we have missed something along the way that could explain such a situation or a lot of politics is being played. We suspect the latter.

It is little wonder that we seem to compound our problems rather than solve them. Public affairs often appear to degenerate to a point that is all but impossible.

Otherwise normal, intelligent human beings enter public life and are transformed into incomprehensible political animals. One is perplexed to understand why it is so.

Some would say it can all be traced to the bigness of government but that cannot be the case since one can find relative idiocy right down to the lowest governmental subdivision. We would hope it is not simply an inherent characteristic of our political system.

Perhaps the lust for public office just is greater than the ability of those who seek it to temper their aspirations with their innate sense of responsibility.

High Cost Of Health Continues In Debate

WASHINGTON — Natinal health insurance is an idea whose time has come a long, long way. And it still appears to have a long, long way to go. Since the advent of Medicare and Medicaid in 1965, opposition to government-supported health-care programs has declined sharply. As former HEW Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen observed, "The long ideological dispute in this country over national health insurance no longer is whether every American should be protected by comprehensive coverage, but how or when."

The "how" promises to be as big an obstacle as the "when" President Nixon's latest national health insurance program, submitted to Congress Feb. 6, has three principal features. It would require employers to offer employees insurance plans covering standard health benefits, provide federally subsidized coverage of the poor, and restructure the Medicare program for the aged. It would also limit the amount any family would have to pay out of its own pocket for medical care to $1,500 a year.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) praised the Nixon proposal as "a major step toward enactment of a national health insurance program in this country." Kennedy has advanced, without much success, a rival health-insurance system of his own. It would provide comprehensive medical coverage for everybody, financed through a government trust fund from taxes — 50% from general revenues, 36% from employers' payrolls, and 14% from individual income.

Nixon has assailed the Kennedy approach for being overly costly and for assigning too great a role to the federal government in running the nation's health-care system. While dedicating a hospital in Miami on Feb. 14, the President said: "When I go to a hospital or a doctor, I want the doctor working for the individual and not for the government."

Critics of the Nixon health-insurance program retort that it relies too heavily on the insurance industry. Companies specializing in health-care protection, it is charged, make enormous profits. In addition, the policies sold are so complex that the insured may not know what his own policy pays until he submits a claim. He may then be dismayed to discover that his specific disease was not covered.

The current debate on health insurance has remained essentially the same since New Deal days, when it was proposed that health-care benefits be financed through the Social Security payroll tax.

Some experts wonder if any kind of national insurance plan will improve the nation's health care. Dr. James G. Haughton, executive director of the Cook County (Ill.) Health and Hospitals Governing Commission, told a House subcommittee in December that all insurance programs now under consideration are "designed to protect various vested interests" rather than the lobbyist "families for whom a $10 doctor's fee is a catastrophe." Thus, the debate on the "how" of health insurance goes on, further delaying an answer to the question of "when."

Ag Staff Sees Salary Inequity

Agricultural College personnel at the University of Nebraska, frustrated by almost a year of inaction, now are publicly voicing their concern over what they call the "demoralizing inequity" that exists in ag college salaries as compared to those given to city campus colleagues of the same academic ranking.

Simply put, the ag college staff is asking why someone teaching an agricultural course or otherwise working in that college should draw less money for a day's work than a teacher with the same qualifications who instructs students in, say, history or engineering on the city campus.

A significant salary disparity apparently does exist, although a comparison is made more difficult by the split appointment system used at the ag college, where many on the staff combine research and extension work with classroom teaching.

Last year a report was drawn up by ag college personnel comparing the salaries of professional staff members in agriculture, who usually work a 12-month year because of research and extension work, with the salaries of teachers with comparable academic rankings at the downtown Lincoln campus, where staff members usually work nine months a year.

The report is based on the number of actual working days and it shows that if all professors worked a 12-month year, ag college teachers would be averaging 17% less in salary per year than their city campus counterparts.

The report, which was passed on to NU administrators, apparently had failed to stir up any action. So a number of ag college staff members, who are of the belief that the Legislature either does not recognize the problem or does not understand it, this week passed a resolution asking that either the Legislature provide full pay equity for ag personnel this year or that the amount be committed from the Lincoln campuses' contingency funds. If neither is accomplished, the resolution states, the agricultural staff should work only on a nine-month basis. In other words, close down research and extension work during the summer.

We don't think a majority of ag staff members really want to strike for three months if it came down to that alternative. Further, we think discussions comparing downtown and ag campus workloads could become heated. But we also think that the ag college staff members have the makings of a case which should be brought to the attention of the Legislature.

President's Reform Package

President Nixon's campaign reform package, roughly outlined by the White House Tuesday, appears to have the best chance of any plan yet offered to gain acceptance of both the public and politicians.

Nixon's plan rejects the idea of financing presidential and congressional campaigns out of the federal treasury and that should set well with a majority of taxpayers, even if there is strong support in Congress from reformers who want public financing.

The Nixon package also places a lid on individual contributions to a candidate, but it does not place an arbitrary limit on campaign spending, which should please most politicians.

Another feature of the Nixon plan which should draw considerable support is a proposal to shorten the presidential campaign season by holding no primaries earlier than May 1 and by asking the national parties to delay their nominating conventions until September.

One controversial proposal which might receive healthy support from the public is the proposed ban on big labor and big business contributions to individual candidates. Although groups such as the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education or the National Association of Manufacturers could contribute money to such organizations as the Democratic or Republican National Committee if the funds are not earmarked for a specific candidate.

Some features of the Nixon plan — such as provisions for reporting of contributions and expenses and the anti-dirty tricks provisions — need to be examined in greater detail before determining if the plan is suitably tough. But it looks to be the most acceptable plan thus far.

A Nasty Family Squabble

PARIS — The relations between the United States and France have taken a nasty turn. It is not primarily that their policies are different, which is understandable and even natural, but that they are beginning to personalize their differences, and blame Kissinger or Jobert or Pompidou for their misunderstandings.

The charges against the American secretary of state here are startling. They amount to an indictment of bad faith. In official quarters in Paris, it is said that he tells one story to the French, another to the British, and a third to the Germans. At one point, they claim he wants Europe to speak with one voice, but when it does they feel that he resents having to talk to the Danish foreign minister as the spokesman of the Nine, and insists that they confer with the United States before presenting him with Europe's decisions.

On the other hand, Kissinger feels that the French are purposely trying to exclude the United States from conferences which affect American vital interests. His view is that the problems of trade, money, oil and defense are common problems that can be solved only by common policies among the industrial nations, but the French take a different view.

The French opposed his suggestion that there should be a trilateral declaration of policy by the United States, Western Europe and Japan to deal with the financial and economic problems of the advanced nations. France insisted on a declaration by Europe and Japan, excluding the United States.

Similarly, Kissinger wanted Europe and the United States to hold a conference with the Arab states this year to discuss economic, financial, and cultural relations, but again France insisted on a European-Arab conference without the United States.

Aside from these fundamental differences of policy, side issues are now adding to the problem. For example, the United States government is informed that the French ambassador in Rio de Janeiro has been telling Brazilian officials that the talks between Washington and Moscow on the limitation of strategic arms are designed to establish the domination of the United States over Western Europe and of the Soviet Union over Eastern Europe.

Europe, and even lead reluctantly to a revival of American isolationism. So the poison spreads.

As a result of these differences, Kissinger did not come back through Paris on his way home from the Middle East, but went to Bonn to talk to Chancellor Willy Brandt, and then to Brussels to report on his Middle East mission. This was not accidental, and French officials took it as a rebuke.

Nobody talks about President Nixon here. Watergate is seldom mentioned. All questions are about Kissinger. His philosophy, his scholarly writings from his days at Harvard, which have been studied in official quarters here with meticulous care, and particularly, as the French see it, his fascination with world order based on understandings with the primary military powers.

The view of America here is very odd, and in many ways deeply unfair. It is not understood in Paris that the United States has come out of Vietnam and Watergate in a mood of self-doubt and self-criticism, and far from trying to dominate Europe, is searching for new ways to create a different world order and looking to Europe for help in finding common policies to deal with the present disarray in the non-communist world.

French officials prefer to believe that the Nixon administration, in trouble at home,

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

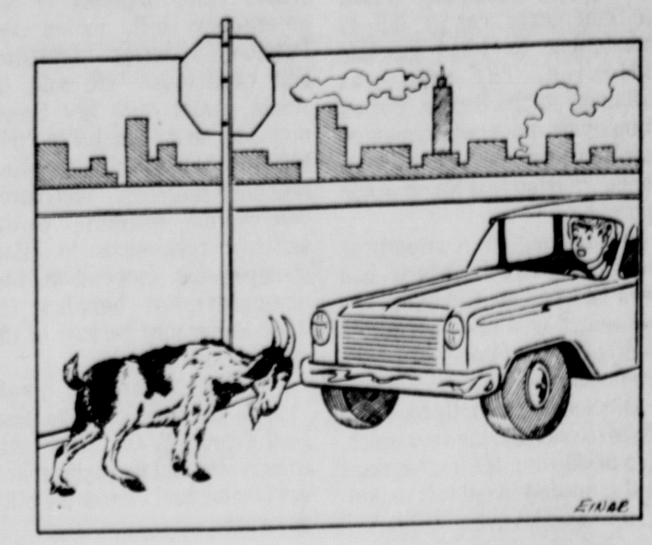

One day last week as I turned the corner of our town and drove toward the post office. I was surprised to see a goat standing in the middle of the street. It was a nice black and white goat with a glossy sheen in its heavy coat and in no hurry at all to move along its way.

Ah-ha! I thought. Here was a goat out to change the image of the goat. . . goat liberation, if you please. Instead of always having it said that March comes in like a lamb and goes out like a lion or vice versa (for this was yet the month of February), here was a goat with other ideas. March could very well come in like a goat and go out like a lion . . . at least as far as this particular goat was concerned. It was as gentle and as friendly as any lamb could ever be.

But the thing that really hit my funny bone happened about an hour later. On a side street as I pulled up to a stop sign, there stood the goat in front of the stop sign looking right at me. How I wished I had a camera in the car. I am certain I could have had a picture to enter in the humorous division of a picture contest. It certainly was an eye-catcher.

The cities have their traffic cops with a shrill whistle but a docile, quiet goat by the stop sign is just as effective.

The tulips are popping through the ground south of the house spurred by the early spring warmth. A big flock of noisy red-winged blackbirds flew into our grove of trees toward evening last night and like all tourists, they settled where they lit, perhaps weary from their flight. They soon quieted down for the night . . . a dark mass in the trees as darkness approached.

Of course the robins have been bobbing about the front yard for some time. . . those that stayed all winter plus the ones that migrated back from the southland.

This is my time of year, I thought, as I stepped outside my door yesterday afternoon, with the sun warm upon my back and vibrant awakening noises all about me, including the croak of a frog some-where near the foundation of the house.

We have a basement under our house so I know the outside walls are warmer for it is along this fringe of wall that the first tulips appear in the spring. It was from this area that the sleepy croak of the frog came.

Knowing what snows and cold winds we can have in March, I think the frog had best snuggle down for an extra forty winks.

When I look back and think of the snows that were coming our way every few days the past winter, I thought that spring would never come although I knew full well that it had never failed us thus far. Now that it is showing signs of stirring outside my window, I look back and think, "Where has the winter gone?"

As always I was going to accomplish so much while confined to the house much of the time. I find many of my tasks are unfinished. Perhaps that is alright, too, as it gives me an incentive to keep planning. . . that idea that some day I will wind up my projects. If I were confronted with nothing to do but sit with my hands folded in my lap, I think that I would be ready to join the goat and stand idling by the stop sign. The very idea of stopping anything makes me cringe for I always like to keep the gears well oiled within the recesses of my mind.

I hope never to be like "Poor Tired Tim," wisps of a poem I remember from childhood.

"Poor tired Tim. It's sad for him.

He lags the long bright morning through,

Ever so tired of nothing to do."

Matter Of Rights

Omaha, Neb.

Your editorial which appeared in The Star on Feb. 22 has been called to my attention. You were writing in opposition to LB600 introduced in the Legislature by Senator Shirley Marsh.

Your editorial seems to raise the question of whose rights are being violated. You uphold the smoker's rights, but the non-smoker has rights, too. It is no "smoke-screen" to say that some non-smokers find smoke irritating to them; it is not only irritating but to the persons who have respiratory problems, it can be very distressing. Let's consider the rights of those persons who are prohibited from going into public places where they are subjected to breathing smoke-filled atmosphere.

The smoker is not deprived of his right to smoke, provided he goes to the designated smoking areas, but some non-smokers cannot go to places where they should have the freedom to go if those places have a concentration of smoke which causes them to cough and choke and to be so distressed that they cannot go there, at all. These people have rights, too.

Senator Shirley Marsh recognized that the person with a respiratory problem and with an allergy problem should have the right to go to public places and the smoker should have the common courtesy of not subjecting the persons with respiratory distress to the unbearable burden of a smoke-filled atmosphere in a place to which all should be entitled to go.

Too Much Money?

Broken Bow, Neb.

If Senator Carpenter really said the farmer has more money than he knows what to do with, he must have been facetious, because he knows better.

Let there may be readers who think that's true. I'd like to bring to their attention what a farmer might do if he could get a little money ahead. He'd probably pay off his debt at the bank and whatever he'd borrowed from the P. C. A. or other government loans. No doubt his tractors of the 1950's vintage have about "had it." Have you asked the price of a new tractor lately? Then follows the need for some other new machinery because the old drill, plow, etc. won't fit the new tractor. Have you priced any new machinery? The labor unions have about priced themselves out of the market.

You can drive about the country and take note of the miles of broken-down fence caused by the snows. Have you priced a spool of barbed wire lately? You might notice where the wind has torn loose so many shingles that the house needs reshingling. Have you priced a bale of shingles lately? The deep mud and snow nearly ruined corral fence and feed lots. Know what posts and planks cost?

Many farmers wish for a few extra dollars to send to their sons and daughters in college, almost all of whom have part-time jobs. If a farmer is lucky enough to have a wife who can go back to teaching, that helps. Of course, if he is so unfortunate as to be in a K12 district, his taxes go much higher. Then the town schools are so crowded, they must build more room. Know what building material costs?

Find a hired man? Were it possible, he'd want $800 to $1,500 a month, expect to go to work at 7:30 a.m., an hour or more off at noon, and quit at 6 p.m. even though the sun is way up there. Also, no Sunday work. I'm wondering who is going to produce food for the country when we old gray-heads are no more!

So we have too much money! Well, over the last 50 years, those of us who have acquired it have earned it. Maybe a few of the new generation will work as hard and spend as long hours.

All of my interests are in agriculture and animals, and I think we are not adequately understood.

Two Prisoners

Lincoln, Neb.

The Vietnam war is NOT over. In the year since the signing of the peace treaty, over 125,000 casualties have been suffered by the Vietnamese people in the ongoing conflict. The U.S. taxpayers fund the Saigon government in the amount of $2.5 billion to $5 billion. This is 80% of the total Saigon government budget.

A prison-by-prison estimate conducted by a Vietnamese prison reform group gives a total of over 202,000 political prisoners held by the Thieu government. Conditions in these prisons are very bad. Many are imprisoned primarily because of their opposition to the Thieu regime.

We can actively show our concern for these people by expressing our dismay over the way our taxes are being spent. We can also write our congresspersons, asking them to go to the Saigon embassy and ask for the release of two individuals — Cao Thi Que Huong and Huyen Long.

These two persons were imprisoned illegally, tortured and subjected to inhumane prison conditions. Cao Thi Que Huong was released due to the discovery that her confession had been obtained through torture. When she protested her husband's death in prison, she was again placed in jail. Huyen Long's original sentence was suspended in 1967 due to international pressure. After he continued to criticize the Saigon government, his release was rescinded. Long is now in prison.

Seeking Truth

In regard to the letter from "Perspective," the writer had some good points but contradicts himself in the last part in his reference that one individual or party is not God but later he writes: " . . . God is truth, fairness, reason, justice, and Watergate reeks with the absence of that."

Let's find the truth in Watergate; let's not put the President on a pedestal just to tear him down.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Couple Finds Travel By Freighter Inexpensive And Relaxing

By ROBERT PETERSON

Taking a slow boat to China lies buried in the dreams of most folks approaching retirement. And a slow boat usually means a freighter — a vessel carrying cargo to the four corners of the earth.

There are hundreds of freighters in service, operated by some 30 different countries. Some go on short runs to the Caribbean or South America, but others go to the farthest reaches of the globe. Nearly all follow an international rule of carrying just 12 passengers. Freighters don't usually have a physician aboard, so most lines require that passengers past 65 present a certificate from their doctors stating that they're unlikely to require emergency medical treatment.

What does freighter travel cost? This varies but generally it averages out to about $25 or $30 a day. Thus a 60-day trip to various ports of call in the Orient and back again would cost less than $2,000 per person. This turns out to be fairly reasonable considering that this covers your stateroom, transportation, and three meals a day.

Here's a letter from the William Hanrocks of Gleneden Beach, Ore., who recently sailed to the Far East on a freighter operated by the Orient Overseas Line.

"We loved our trip on the 'Oriental Rio.' Of course those seeking faultless accommodations and personal service might have been disenchanted. But we were more than satisfied.

"Life on board was leisurely and relaxing. Food was good — certainly no one ever left the table hungry. There were varied activities, but usually one makes his own entertainment. Those who had favorite games at home could usually find others to share such games with them.

"An important thing to remember for those planning freighter trips is to bring along some of the commonplace things you're apt to need — such as scotch tape and masking tape, safety pins, twine, and toothpaste. It's a good idea to bring along some personal foodstuffs, for it's fun suddenly to offer one's guests tidbits of Vienna sausage, deviled ham, stuffed olives, fresh crackers, etc., after weeks of ship's fare.

Packaged and canned things travel well until ready to use. We'd also recommend that folks bring a supply of invitations and 'thank you' notes. These come in handy because guests enjoy entertaining each other on board. Also bring old standby remedies for colds, coughs, etc. Maybe you won't need them but it's nice to be able to offer relief to new-found friends.

"Sometimes an extension cord is worth its weight in gold. Ball point pens do run dry so bring some refills. At times a can of air spray is refreshing to clear the cabin of stale odors. Ladies will find they use twice as much lipstick on ships due to the salt air so extras may be a good idea.

"Would we take the same trip again? The answer is yes. Maybe next time instead of using just one freighter and staying with it, we might go on one ship to a certain port, then get off and stay a few weeks and pick up another freighter to the next point of interest. But we love freighter travel and recommend it to other healthy, active folks with a little money, plenty of time, and a lust to see the world."

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

San Francisco — Our new cat, Hell, has gone again. A chick who really gets around. When she decided to give the best years of her lives to Whitefoot — that's a neighbor tomcat — our daughter and her chums gave her a lovely wedding.

Flowers. A chopped liver wedding supper. They threw rice. They drew up a marriage certificate.

"On this day, Hell Delaplaine and Whitefoot Atkins were put together in the patrons (not sure what that means) of matrimony."

They signed their names.

"When Hell has her kittens, they will be divided by the owners."

We are all waiting. Meantime Hell is off somewhere, helling around.

They drew up a will. The owner girls leave everything to the cats. The cats leave everything to them.

Leaving inheritances to animals is not unusual, and when I was squeezing tears from the daily readers, I covered such events.

One woman left her three cats a bundle — 410 shares of Pacific Gas and Electric worth 25 grand at that time.

The lady executrix was so nervous she called a vet.

The vet said: "Give them tranquilizers until they get used to their new home."

So she did. Her mother — not knowing — gave the cats a shot of Miltowns.

The cats got so groggy they had to walk them all night. However, they recovered.

Dogs get more loot than other animals. A San Pedro woman left $15,000 to eight dogs. (She left her wedded husband a cool $5.)

A dog in Quincy, Mass. got $5,000. Had to pay a $369 inheritance tax.

Two talking Irish setters were in the will for $30,000. Their owner said they talked fluent English. (Though likely with an Irish brogue.)

A Los Angeles judge questioned them, but they refused to speak. Stood mute as the legal saying is. So he declared the will void.

If the dogs had spoken up "Yes, Your Honor" they would now be in the chips.

At one time I was hot on the trail of a dog named Toby, reported by the Moscow press.

The story said: "The streets of New York are filled with the children of workers, dressed in tatters, going through rubbish on Fifth Avenue for something to eat, while one of the richest quarters in town belongs to Toby whose mistress willed him $75 million."

Naturally, we were all mad to get at this dog. The biggest score in dog history.

Queries to Moscow got us nowhere. All we had was the description. No address or phone number.

Moscow said: "The dog sleeps in a golden bed. He is attended by a staff of servants and has six lawyers. His apartment is furnished in the height of fashion and has a dining room and a drawing room."

Well, we never turned up the rich dog. Couldn't even turn up a servant or a lawyer.

I was in Moscow a few years later and I went over to the big paper, Pravda. I thought I'd go in and, after cutting up some journalism touches, I'd ask to see the clips on Toby.

Acceptance Of Indians Urged

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The nation's Indians can help other Americans to learn to believe in pluralism and to understand the earth, LaDonna Harris said Wednesday.

Mrs. Harris, active in solving problems of Indians and other minority groups, said that America must learn to accept people of different cultures and beliefs in leadership roles.

Speaking to an audience at Nebraska Wesleyan University, she said that people with dark skin were never accepted into the melting pot, indicating that the melting pot theory was never entirely true.

She spent a day on the NWU campus as a Nebraska Educational Television Council on Higher Education visiting minority scholar.

In addition to learning to accept cultural difference in people, Harris said, the nation must learn to understand the earth. "An old Sioux medicine man told me two years ago that something would happen to make the lights go out and take away the heat," she said. "He said that maybe it would be a good thing."

Plans Fought

She said Indian tribes are now fighting plans for strip mining in some locations.

"Have you ever seen a strip mine?" she asked. "They've got machines that can make a hole the size of this room at one time."

Harris said Indians have "come into their own" in the last two years, dating the change from the occupation of Alcatraz.

Since that time, she said, Indians have seen something beautiful in their own languages and have seen things worth retaining in their own cultures.

"Things have changed radically" from years when educational, religious and governmental institutions did an effective job of instilling self-hate in Indian people, Harris said.

She said the "drunk Indian period" was caused by institutional efforts, especially the practice of wrestling, sometimes physically, small children from their families and taking them to boarding schools hundreds of miles away.

No 'Worth'

"You were told that the reason native Americans were not in the history book was because their cultures had nothing worth recording," she said. "Education told you that in order to be educated you had to put your Indian culture behind you."

This instilled self-hate, she said, and was evidenced in alcoholism and a suicide rate about four times the national average. Most of these suicides, she said, were of young men between 16 and 25 who had attended boarding schools, she said.

In addition to events like Alcatraz, Harris said, the Indian movement was aided by programs in the Office of Economic Opportunity which allowed Indians to assume "all kinds of leadership roles."

"In a hard way," she said, programs to relocate Indians from reservations to urban areas were also a good thing because when Indians came to the city they learned to cross tribal lines.

"It helped us see the need to cross lines, especially on special issues," she said.

University Issues 4-Point 'Statement On Streaking'

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Wednesday issued a four-point "statement on streaking" following an episode in the early morning hours in which a man and a woman were arrested.

"Any student who is arrested for streaking will be subject to existing city and/or state statutes," the written statement said.

The university disciplinary code and judicial system will be invoked when the accused student has adversely affected "some distinct and clear interest of the university as an academic community," according to the statement.

The Lincoln police retain authority to investigate streaking incidents on university property and adjacent areas, the statement said.

The statement added that the Campus Security Department will attempt to keep crowds under control, take photographs for use in follow-up investigation and will make arrests.

Students who are arrested will be taken to the Lincoln Police Department for appropriate action, according to the statement.

Although the exact number of UNL streakers has not been determined, police said they saw at least five or six. A crowd of onlookers was estimated at 250 to 300.

Two persons, an 18-year-old woman and a 20-year-old man were arrested and later charged in Lincoln Municipal Court with disturbing the peace. Both pleaded innocent.

Police said the woman was arrested near Broyhill Fountain on the UNL campus after police saw her and a male companion dashing nude across campus at about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The male "streaked on into the crowd" and was never apprehended police said.

Two male streakers running down an alley between R and S St. encountered two police officers sitting in their cruiser. One, a 20-year-old, was apprehended.

Police officers said they also received reports that females in sorority houses were disrobing from the waist down and standing in front of windows.

At one sorority house, police said, it was reported that females were coming out on a balcony wearing their robes. They would open their robes and dash back inside, police said.

Police said the crowd on the UNL campus was orderly, although some beer cans were in evidence. The crowd dispersed at about 3:15 a.m., police said.

Another streaking incident, this one involving three males, was reported Wednesday afternoon at Sellick Quadrangle on the UNL campus.

Later Wednesday night young men appeared nude on fraternity rooftops while a crowd of young people surged up and down 16th St. on the UNL campus.

The crowd estimated by police at one point at about 2,000, blocked the street to traffic at about 10:15. Some cars were caught in the crowd for several minutes.

The street was blocked off by police at Vine and Q Sts.

Police reported three more male streakers were arrested Wednesday evening.

Streakers were also reported Tuesday and Wednesday night on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus. Wednesday night about 25 to 35 nude males appeared before a crowd leaving the Yutan-Palmira basketball game.

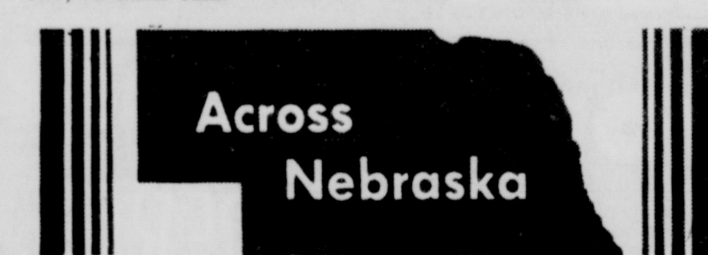

The men came from a parking lot and ran in a ragged line for about 150 feet before disappearing back into the parking lot. A man in clothing with a two-way radio was seen in the crowd, apparently to signal the appropriate time for the streak.

Tuesday night about 25 to 30 young people were involved in an earlier streak on the NWU campus, according to Fred Blumer, vice president of academic affairs.

"I don't know how many were streakers and how many were audience," Blumer said. "It was a quick and fairly innocent episode."

"We don't want to be flip-pant," he said. "But we think mainly it's just kids having fun. We'll probably be criticized for not cracking down, but that's not our inclination at this time."

"The danger in this thing is that it might lead to something else," Blumer said.

Swim Pool Issue Goes On Ballot

North Platte (AP) — A $283,000 bond issue that would help finance an indoor swimming pool will be placed on the May 14 ballot. The City Council voted unanimously to place the issue before voters. Total cost of the facility, that would include an eight-lane pool and other facilities, has been set at $948,000. Officials said $665,000 in federal revenue sharing funds, which the city already has received, would finance the remainder of the costs.

Mother Of Abandoned Infant Found

Beatrice (AP) — The mother of an abandoned infant who was found Feb. 26 has been located, police said Wednesday. Police said charges against the 19-year-old woman would be filed Thursday.

Flue Closes St. Agnes Academy

Alliance (AP) — St. Agnes Academy in Alliance was closed Wednesday because of an excessively high absentee rate of students with the flu. Academy Supt. Richard Bones said 45 students were absent Tuesday, one-third of the student body. Bones said classes will resume Friday. Absences in the Alliance public school are about double the usual number, but Supt. Martin Petersen said no plans are being made to close.

Platte Post Goes To Mrs. Wilken

Columbus — Mrs. Shirley Wilken of Columbus has been appointed the new Platte County election commissioner. She is the first person to hold the newly created position and was selected by the Platte Board of Supervisors for the four year post.

Ground Broken For New Church

Lexington — Groundbreaking ceremonies were held here for Lexington's First Christian Church new $300,000 edifice. Mrs. Clara Wright, 93, oldest member of the congregation, turned the first shovelful of ground with the assistance of Philip Olsen, church pastor, and Dale Taylor, an elder.

Miss Horn To Speak At Doane

Crete — Kahn-Tineta Horn, Indian activist and controversial spokeswoman for the Indian cause, will speak at Doane College Tuesday, March 12, at 10 a.m. in the Communications auditorium. A Mohawk of the Six Nation Iroquois Confederacy, she has traveled through Canada, the U.S. and Mexico studying Indian culture and living conditions and has lectured extensively on Indian history, problems, reforms and future hopes of the American Indians.

Survey Shows Nixon Standing At A New Low

By LOUIS HARRIS
(c) The Chicago Tribune

President Nixon's standing with the American people has reached a new low in the Harris Survey, with only 19% giving him positive marks on the overall job he is doing in the White House. A month earlier, 30% gave him a positive job rating, down from the 37% who felt that way last November.

Nixon has also dropped to his all-time low on "inspiring confidence personally in the White House," down to 15% positive in a survey conducted among 1,665 households nationwide from February 18-22. A month before, it was 17% positive, sharply down from 48% positive a year ago.

Thus, it can be concluded that all of President Nixon's recent efforts to restore the faith and confidence of the American people, including his State of the Union Message to Congress and his stump personal appearances around the country, must be deemed a failure.

The outlook for his restoring a wellspring of popular backing as he faces impeachment proceedings must be viewed as bleak. He has already become a target of Democratic candidates in special House elections and the tempo and depth of such attacks against him are likely to increase in the weeks and months ahead.

The litany of troubles facing the President is extensive: — By 75-17%, a lopsided majority of the American people agrees with the statement that "he has lost so much credibility that it will be hard for him to be accepted as President again." — By 48-39%, they no longer believe "he is a man of high integrity." Only 12 months ago, a large majority, 68-20%, expressed high confidence in his personal honesty.

— By 59-27%, two-to-one, they reject the argument that "even though President Nixon has not been honest about Watergate, he is so good on handling foreign affairs, Watergate should be forgotten and dropped."

— Thus, by 46-41%, a plurality comes down on the side that "he has reached the point where he can no longer be an effective President and should resign for the good of the country." This is about the same as the set of public opinion on this question earlier this year in January.

The simple, and basic fact about public opinion and Richard Nixon is that the blot of Watergate on his reputation simply is not disappearing.

— By 63-24%, a majority feels "he knew about the attempt to cover-up White House involvement in Watergate while it was going on." This fundamental belief in the President's guilt has not changed substantially either in recent weeks.

Here is the trend on the overall rating accorded the President on the way he has handled his job. Periodically, nationwide cross sections of the public have been asked:

"How would you rate the job President Nixon is doing as President — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

Senior Citizens Get Hot Noon Meal

Grand Island — Thanks to a new nutrition program for the elderly, dozens of senior citizens here are now enjoying a hot noon meal.

Just beginning its second week, the federally financed program has averaged approximately 70 participants so far. Hopefully the attendance will soon reach 100.

"We're very encouraged so far," said Mrs. Lois Stienike, project director. "Besides providing good nutritional meals, the project brings people together for social interaction which is also very beneficial."

Sponsored by Senior Citizens Industries, Inc., the service provides meals five times per week at various churches and other public places. The food is available to anyone over 60 on a voluntary contributions basis.

The program has been funded for six months with a $59,101 grant through the Nebraska Commission on Aging. The meals are catered by a local restaurant, which was awarded a contract by bid.

The Grand Island project is one of only a few which have begun in the state following a pilot project at Walthill. It is completely separate from Meals on Wheels, which is an individual service to the elderly in their homes.

Under the new program, the meals are followed by various cultural, educational and recreational activities.

Ag Faculty Claims Pay Is Unequal

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

In protest of what they claim are lower salaries than received by their counterparts on city campus, faculty members of the Agricultural College of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln are taking their case to the Legislature.

The Ag College professors proposed three possible solutions at a meeting Tuesday attended by UNL Chancellor James Zumberge:

— A direct appropriation from the Legislature to bring Ag College salaries to the level of other UNL professors. It would take $1,131,460 to equalize the salaries.

— Taking the entire amount required for equity from the contingency funds of the UNL chancellor and NU President D. B. Varner.

— If both the above are rejected, cut back the work year of ag campus faculty to nine months instead of the present 12 months.

The resolution notes that the third solution would force the closing of a significant proportion of the college's research and extension work with farmers.

The east campus faculty approved it without a single dissenting vote.

The proposal will be hand-carried to Gov. J. J. Exon; Sen. Richard Marvel, chairman of the Legislature's Appropriation Committee; members of the Legislature; Varner; the chancellor's office, and representatives of Nebraska agricultural groups.

A spokesman for the group said the action was taken "in consideration of the demoralizing inequity that exists in salaries for the Agricultural College staff, the seriousness of which apparently has not been recognized or understood by the Appropriations Committee of the Nebraska Legislature."

The resolution notes that "long and tedious deliberations have been carried on during the past year in presenting the existing situation to the administration."

It calls for immediate action by the NU systems administration in the event the Legislature and the governor fail to provide the needed funds to equalize the salaries between the two Lincoln campuses."

A report presented to the administration based on income per days of work performed by college staff members on both campuses suggests that professors get paid $3,504 less for 12 months work on the agricultural campus than on the city campus.

Salaries for associate professors are $2,772, below city campus associate professors and the assistant professors on the farm campus are paid $2,706 less than the assistant professors on the city campus. Instructors on the farm campus are paid $2,706 less for a 12-month work schedule than city campus instructors, according to the report.

Governors Conference Urges Steps To Up Fertilizer Output

Washington (UPI) — The Midwestern Governors Conference Wednesday called on the federal government to take steps to increase fertilizer production and insure that any shortage in supply is shared equally across the nation.

The Midwest group, meeting during the National Governors Conference, acted on a resolution proposed by Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan.

The resolution said farmers were reporting an "extraordinarily serious shortage of fertilizer with only weeks to go before spring planting."

"Our region's farmers apparently are unable to get more fertilizer; indeed, they are reporting potentially disastrous shortages of some fertilizers," it said.

The resolution called on the federal government to: — Increase national fertilizer production to an amount equal to need, in particular, by insuring that natural gas and other necessary petroleum products are made available to producers.

— Assure that any shortage in supply is shared equally by all states, based on past usage.

— Establish guidelines for the production and distribution of fertilizer to give farmers top priority over all other users, especially during the planting season.

The conference also adopted another resolution by Milliken calling for repeal of year-round daylight saving time, saying it has not held down on energy use and has endangered children waiting in darkness for school buses.

Feeders Urge End To 'Games'

Schuyler (AP) — Officials of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association have asked President Nixon to "stop playing games with the livestock industry or there won't be a feeder left in the country."

Paul Johnson, executive director of the NLFA, said losses of $150 to $200 per head have been reported to his office.

The association asked Nixon to renew import quotas on beef, and immediately investigate the price spread between live animals and retail meat prices.

The communique also asks that Nixon order the Environmental Protection Agency to relax demands on the feeding industry and to encourage pharmaceutical houses to "tool up for the manufacture of DES."

DES is a chemical that aids livestock growth.

19th District Judge Tabbed

Kenneth C. Fritzler, a lawyer at Kimball since 1945, was named Wednesday to be county judge for the 19th Judicial District.

He was appointed by Gov. J. James Exon to succeed John D. Knapp, who left the county judgeship to accept an appointment as District Court judge.

The 19th district includes Kimball, Cheyenne, Deuel and Banner counties.

Bid On Winnebago Minibuses Lowest

If all goes according to plan, come this summer Lincolinites will be commuting around town in Winnebagoes — reconverted into minibuses, that is, not your traditional recreational home.

All this is possible since Winnebago of Forest City, Ia., is turning out minibuses now and on Wednesday the city accepted bids from four firms on the purchase of ten such vehicles for the Lincoln Transportation System (LTS).

Bellevue Trailer Sales submitted the apparent low bid for the ten, 19-passenger, Winnebago buses. The bid was $152,200 or $15,220 per bus.

Three other firms submitted bids: Grumman Bus Sales, Danville, N.Y., for $182,150; Flibble Co., Loudonville, Ohio, $183,285.40; and Vanice-Pontiac, Lincoln, $231,510.

City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey said his office will check Bellevue's bid to make sure all the items requested by the city are included in the price. That review should take about a week.

If the bids conform to city specifications, Harvey said the contract will be awarded to that firm and the first Winnebagoes will be rolling into Lincoln by mid to late June.

As envisioned by the LTS Board, the additional minibuses will serve as shuttle buses, both from outlying parking lots and to fill in on heavily traveled routes and as additions to the regular minibus downtown loop.

Three of the four original minibuses are still operational.

Meeting Scheduled

A public meeting of the Nebraska Educational Television Commission is scheduled for Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Nebraska Educational Telecommunications Center, 1800 No. 33rd.

Goldsberry Bound Over

Mark Goldsberry, charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of 15-year-old Wendy Hile, waived preliminary hearing in Lancaster County Court Wednesday.

Accompanied by his attorney, Paul Galter, who was out of town at the time he was originally charged, Goldsberry was bound over to District Court by Lancaster County Judge Jeffrey Cheuvront.

The body of Miss Hile, who had disappeared Nov. 15, after leaving her home for school, was found several weeks later in a field near Table Rock.

Goldsberry was first arrested after police received a call from a woman suggesting that they question the 17-year-old youth in connection with the incident.

Schools Adopt Some Proposals

Omaha (AP) — The Rev. James S. Allen testified Wednesday that the Omaha School District administration adopted "a lot" of the recommendations made in 1973 by the Omaha Ministerial Alliance to improve Tech Junior and Senior high schools.

Under questioning by school board attorney Gerald Laughlin, the Rev. Mr. Allen said the recommendations included revamping the high school curriculum, renovating the building and removing the junior high students from the building.

However, the alliance's education committee chairman testified that the board did not follow the group's recommendation that displaced students be reassigned on a mandatory basis to other junior highs with the district providing transportation. Instead, the board followed an "open policy" which gave the students a choice of schools.

The predominantly black ministerial alliance deals with social and theological issues in the community.

The Rev. Mr. Allen, the government's third witness in its discrimination suit against the school district, opened testimony on the third day of the trial before Federal District Court Judge Albert Schatz.

School Bond Issue In Seward Defeated

Lincoln Star Special
Seward — A $4.3 million school bond issue was soundly defeated Tuesday by voters in the Seward school district.

According to the Seward County clerk's office, the unofficial vote was 417 for and 2,020 against.

The proposal failed to carry in any of the precincts, a breakdown of votes revealed.

The plan had called for closing all elementary attendance centers in the district, bringing all elementary students into Seward where a new elementary school would have been located. Funds would also have been provided for an addition to the Seward High School and remodeling of the building to accommodate both junior and senior high school students.

If the plan had been approved, existing elementary and junior high buildings would have been closed in Seward, Goehner, Staplehurst, Garland and Ulisses.

Man, 20, Is Convicted In 2 Omaha Kidnapings

Omaha (AP) — Leonard Ray Anderson, 20, has been convicted of kidnaping two women in separate incidents last Sept. 10 near the Creighton University campus.

District Court Judge Donald Brodkey said sentence will be passed in about a month after the case has been studied by a probation officer.

An 18-year-old Creighton freshman testified Monday that Anderson got into her car near the Creighton campus Sept. 10, pointed a gun at her and forced her to drive to the corner of Dodge St. and Saddle Creek Rd., where she jumped from the car and escaped.

Police said the other kidnaping charge involved a 23-year-old woman who gave a ride to a man later the same day near Creighton. According to police, the man pulled a gun and ordered her to drive him out of the city. She, too, escaped.

Deputy County Atty. Sam Cooper, who prosecuted the kidnaping charges, said Anderson is awaiting trial on robbery and rape charges.

Anderson was acquitted last month on a charge of kidnaping a 20-year-old Creighton student on April 12, 1972.

The pending rape charge stems from an April 8 incident in which a 21-year-old woman allegedly was forced to drive to a local park and was then assaulted.

Soft Drink Prices Going Up; Increase In Sugar Cost Is Cited

A craving for soft drinks will cost consumers more now because soft drink prices are going up.

The increased price of sugar was mentioned by Lincoln soft drink bottlers as the main reason for that increase.

Bottling company spokesmen said they are raising prices to grocers by 15 to 20 cents a case because of sugar prices.

Lincoln Coca-Cola Bottling Co. will raise prices on 24-bottle cases Monday 20 cents on 16- and 32-ounce bottles, 30 cents on 10-ounce bottles, and 10 cents on cases of 24 cans, according to manager Tom Hannegan.

This means that the price will be up about 9 cents a carton at the retail level, he said.

Mid-Continent Bottlers and Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. already have raised their prices.

Cases of 24 cans and 24-bottle 16-ounce bottle cases of 7-Up have gone up 25 cents, according to Frank Dvorak, Mid-Continent office manager. Cases of 24 10-ounce bottles have been raised 20 cents, he said.

A Pepsi-Cola spokesman said cases of 24 cans or 16- and 10-ounce bottles have been raised 15 cents. 12-ounce bottles were raised a dime, he said.

Sugar, the major ingredient in soft drinks, has increased in price from $14 to $21 per hundredweight in the last three months, Hannegan said.

This is because sugar beet and sugar cane farmers turned some of their crop into grains last year when sugar prices didn't rise as much as other crops, according to Gayle Sawicki, Mid-Continent vice president in Omaha.

Hannegan added that cost increases also have occurred for cartons, glass and gasoline for shipping.

All three spokesmen said their companies anticipate no further increases in the price of bottled soft drinks. However, Hannegan said the price of canned Coca-Cola may be raised again, because of the increased price of tin.

Official Apologizes
Athens, Ga. (UPI) — Fred C. Davison, president of the University of Georgia apologized to Dr. William Shockely, who was shouted down when he tried to debate his controversial genetic theories about blacks.

He said Coca-Cola had raised its prices on all its soft drinks twice in the last 60 days.

The current increase represents the first raise this year for both Mid-Continent and Pepsi-Cola, according to company spokesmen.

All three spokesmen agreed that if sugar prices fall back to previous levels, they will try to roll back their prices.

Candidate Says God's Guidance Made Him Run

Fort Worth, Tex. (UPI) — Odell McBrayer, a 43-year-old lawyer, said Wednesday a "leading from God" made him run for Texas governor. He is campaigning as a Republican and believes he is getting divine aid on the road.

"I decided we had left God out of government too long on an active basis," he said.

And if he wins, McBrayer said, "I would depend on God to run the state through prayer and meditation, but I would not cram religion down people's throats. I expect to win."

Eisenhower 'Considered Third Party'

Austin, Tex. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower seriously considered forming a third party for the 1960 election campaign, former Gov. Allan Shivers is quoted as saying in a new book.

"He was disgusted with the extreme right and the extreme left," Shivers said. "He also was disgusted with self-seeking businessmen and labor leaders whom he called 'selfish bigots,' and he thought a third party election of someone from the middle of the spectrum would be good for the nation."

The quote appears in a new biography of Shivers by Austin newsmen Sam Kinch Sr. and Stuart Long.

Shivers was a Democrat, but swung Texas to Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956. He told the writers Eisenhower broached the third party idea to him during a golf game in Washington in 1958.

School Board's Pay Proposal Termed 'Inadequate'

Thursday, March 7, 1974 The Lincoln Star 9

The chief negotiator for the Lincoln Education Association (LEA) termed "responsible" but "inadequate" the Lincoln School Board's first counter-proposal for 1974-75 salaries.

"We commend the interest" of the school board in fighting inflation, said Robert F. Peterson, "but we feel it's significantly inadequate."

Still, Peterson promised the LEA would return to the bargaining talks within two weeks with a "reasonable and responsible" proposal for the school board's consideration.

The school board offer, made formally by board negotiators during a bargaining session Wednesday, proposed a plan that would increase by 7.6% the dollars budgeted for teacher salaries in 1974-75.

Percentage increases for individuals would range from 5% to nearly 11%.

Under the LEA's initial proposal, to which the board negotiators formally reacted in Wednesday's session, salary increases would range from 15% to more than 50%.

Delay Is Asked

Peterson, speaking on behalf of the teacher association negotiators asked for a delay of several days in the talks to permit a thorough study of the school board offer.

He said he intends within the next few days to explain "what's happened" thus far to the LEA, whose members include most of the classroom teachers in the Lincoln Public Schools.

That explanation will go to them by letter, said Peterson.

Peterson said he had several objections to the school board proposal, particularly in relation to its impact on teachers with many years' experience.

The board pay plan would provide the biggest percentage increases to teachers with the least experience. They are near the bottom of the schedule and thus their salaries are the lowest.

'Serious Concern'

"We have a serious concern about the people at the top" of the salary schedule, Peterson said. "There is enormous pressure on the LEA to provide them more adequate" raises.

He also said the LEA disagreed with the notion that the difference should be smaller between salaries paid teacher with little experience and pay for longtime teachers.

"Our goal is in the other direction," he said.

Peterson also told the board negotiators that he hoped the school board might reconsider its decision not to include in the formal talks a series of LEA requests to formalize association rights to such services as use of the school mail and delivery system.

Representatives Urged

Supt. John Prash, who chairs the sessions, did invite the LEA to appoint representatives immediately to participate in decisions related to ordering of supplies and planning school-sponsored staff development activities.

The LEA had sought inclusion in those activities as part of its negotiations requests. The school board refused to make them part of the bargaining, but said it would invite LEA representatives to participate anyway.

As the morning-long session ended, both sides also agreed that they would designate the two groups' spokesmen as the only people who would make public statements on negotiations outside of the formal bargaining sessions.

The LEA and the school board representatives said they will continue their longstanding practice of public formal negotiations sessions, while reserving the right to close them for brief periods at the request of either party.

Arguments Made In Prison Rules Case

By The Associated Press

Prison wardens could lose their discretionary authority to punish inmates if the U.S. Supreme Court does not accept arguments sent to the court this week by the State of Nebraska.

The state is appealing a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision that would require a trial-like hearing before a prisoner could be punished for a violation of prison rules.

Robert O. McDonnell, an inmate at the Nebraska Penal Complex, is suing Warden Charles Wolff, claiming that inmates have the 14th Amendment right to due process under the law.

The state, in a brief sent to the court this week by Asst. Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr, claims that inmates have no constitutional rights except for a prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment.

Next month, Kammerlohr, representatives from other states interested in the case and Solicitor General Robert Bork will orally ask the Supreme Court to overturn the Circuit Court decision.

McDonnell ants inmates represented by lawyers who could cross-examine opposition witnesses at disciplinary hearings.

Kammerlohr, in his brief, says that he does not know how many prison misconduct reports are made annually, "but it would undoubtedly be so high as to keep the entire lawyer population of the United States working full time," if disciplinary hearings were required and inmates were given the right to counsel.

The Nebraska brief cites an article by James W.L. Park of the California Department of Corrections which says: "While representation by legal counsel may be welcome news to hundreds of unemployed young lawyers, it can result in an administrative nightmare in which all but the most gross forms of destructive behavior will be ignored by prison employees because of the endless litigation a charge of rule violation would entail."

The punishment most commonly used by prison officials is solitary confinement.

McDonnell is asking the court to prohibit guards from opening mail sent to an inmate by an attorney. He also wants the state to provide legal assistance to inmates who are bringing civil rights cases.

The state claims that furnishing lawyers to inmates for civil rights cases would put an unreasonable burden on the prison administration and the federal courts.

Centrum Plans Hit Brick Wall

... In Form Of Sen. Chambers

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

City officials' hopes to obtain corrective legislation to build the Centrum in downtown Lincoln have run into a brick wall in the form of Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers and Old Father Time.

At least, temporarily.

Chambers, chairman of the Government and Military Affairs Committee, served notice Wednesday that until his relationship with the city improves, there is little chance that he will support any legislation on the Centrum.

Earlier Wednesday the City Council and mayor met with Lincoln state senators to discuss the legislative steps needed to build the bus terminal and parking garage under terms outlined in a recent court ruling.

Sen. Wally Barnett said he would talk to Chambers, a fellow committee member, about "gutting" LB678, a measure clarifying Lincoln election laws.

In its place, Barnett would substitute language correcting defects listed in the court case on the issuance of bonds for constructing off-street parking facilities.

Barnett suggested the substitution, he said, since "There isn't any way that the Legislature will let us introduce a new bill" as the number of legislative days until adjournment continues to dwindle.

Terms Limited

It was to LB678 that a controversial amendment was tacked on limiting Lincoln mayors to two consecutive terms in office.

And it is over the city's reaction to that amendment that prompted Chamber's current stance.

Chambers told The Star that before he changes his mind "a

Comic Actor De Wolfe Dies

Los Angeles (AP) — Comic actor Billy De Wolfe, who often portrayed an immaculately dressed, precisely speaking member of the upper crust, has died at 67.

De Wolfe died Tuesday. A hospital spokesman said De Wolfe was being treated for cancer and died of a blood clot.

The actor played in such films as "Blue Skies" and "Call Me Madam." Recently he appeared in episodes of the Doris Day and Good Morning World series and on the Tonight Show.

very critical letter written me by Corporation Counsel Ralph Nelson" will have to be clarified.

In that letter, Nelson pointed out that under the city's home rule charter, the voters elected not to place a term limitation on any elected officials.

In allowing the amendment to be attached without a public hearing, Nelson contended the committee's action violated the State Constitution, constituted special legislation and was "in total disregard of the voters" of Lincoln.

'Slipshod'

Chambers said the letter implies "the way I hold meetings is slipshod" and that he has "violated the Constitution."

With the numerous other legislative committees around, Chambers said, "I'm wondering why they'd come to such a tainted source to get the job done."

Furthermore, Chambers maintained it is "peculiar" for the city to go along with the gutting of LB678 when the city objected to amending the same bill in the first place.

The Omaha senator suggested that for the matter to be resolved, city lawmakers should "talk to me face to face" to explain the city's position on both the disputed amendment and legislative changes.

And if a solution is found and "if they'll risk the little baby in my hands," as Chambers descriptively phrased it, then, "I'll see the child through."

Legislative Help Needed

At the breakfast gathering of elected officials, City Atty. Dick Wood emphasized that the Centrum cannot be built "without the help of the Legislature."

Said Wood, "This particular piece of legislation is your business — for no city, Omaha, Lincoln or otherwise, can construct off-street parking facilities without the authority of the state."

Council members Sue Bailey and Steve Cook, both Downtown Advisory Committee members, stressed that the envisioned city services project is the key in revitalizing the downtown core.

"A delay in this would restrict our whole downtown plan," Cook accentuated.

Sen. Steve Fowler asked why the city was not going to go the redevelopment route, as authorized under LB299 passed last year.

Wood explained that time is the major stumbling block in following that plan of action.

Church Elder David Reiner Services Set

Services will be 1:30 p.m. Friday for Elder David E. Reiner, retired minister of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, who died Wednesday.

He had served for 43 years in Canada and the United States as a denominational ministerial elder.

He also was the former welfare director for that church for a five-state region.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. D.E. Reiner; a son, Elder Harold L. Reiner of Washington, D.C.; a daughter, Rosella Reiner of Lincoln; and three grandchildren.

Nine-Session Program Set For The Elderly

The Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College said Wednesday it will sponsor a nine-session consumer program for older citizens of Lincoln.

The first session is to begin Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at Tabitha Village, 843 So. 47th.

Mrs. Grace Heldenbrand and Mrs. Ellen McGowan, who will direct the program, said it will include such topics as retirement and social security, life insurance, diet, estate planning, burial services, nursing homes and travel and retirement expenses.

Easing Not Seen

New York (AP) — Alleviation of present gasoline shortages is unlikely unless Congress changes its mandatory allocation program, said the chairman of Mobil Oil Co.

Planning Set Back On Human Services

The City Council found itself back where it began several months ago in human services planning with the desire to meet the need and no proposals on how to go about it.

Following on the heels of Lincoln Community Service's (LCS) withdrawal from its planning proposal several weeks ago, the Bureau of Sociological Research (BOSR) has signaled its intent to jump ship also.

Both agencies had submitted a joint $53,000 plan to help assess human service needs in Lincoln. That plan was recommended by the city appointed Human Services Advisory Committee.

But, the council has held off action on that recommendation pending a clarification from the Lancaster County Board on its interest in the matter.

In a letter to the council, BOSR Director David Johnson said he viewed the two proposals "to be an integral unit."

Referring to a survey proposed to be conducted by BOSR on the wants and needs in the community, Johnson said, "It is our belief that a survey conducted without definite plans to integrate the findings into a general model for decision making" would be "counter-productive."

"Collection of data in itself serves no purpose unless this data can be meaningfully incorporated into policymaking," he stated.

And that will not occur without LCS, he said.

Johnson said, however, that if a survey is to be conducted in the future, the BOSR would be willing to submit a revised survey proposal.

Three weeks ago LCS withdrew its offer for helping the city outline its planning needs.

LCS took that step, according to director John Goessman, because the time elapsed between submission of the proposal and the present "has created a critical schedule problem.

Goessman said that although LCS is committed to the social planning process, "we realize that the path of current events will not be productive and wish to disassociate ourselves from the issues at hand."

Once "clear directions are forthcoming from our local governments," Goessman said LCS may be interested in pursuing the study.

VOUVRAY—MONMOUSSEAU 1972

VOUVRAY is the famous wine of Touraine, the peaceful park-like region in the heart of the Chateau country of the Loire Valley. The wine is produced in eight communes and even in lesser years when the rest of France produces mediocre wines, this area produces an excellent light and delightful white wine. The vineyards in the area have been in continuous production since the eighth century except for a short period toward the end of the 19th century when most of the vineyards were destroyed by the phylloxera louse. The destroyed areas were replanted with sturdy root-stocks from America and the first grapes of the new plantings was harvested about 1900. In 1936 the new wine-control laws were passed and today only the Chenin Blanc and the Arbois grape are legally permitted to be grown in the district.

VOUVRAY is characteristically soft and dry with just a very pleasant trend toward sweetness; and becomes sweeter as it ages. Seldom is there a poor vintage and the 1972 vintage is outstanding. MITCH TAVLIN—the Wine Merchant in Lincoln—is pleased to offer VOUVRAY-MONMOUSSEAU 1972 at the unusually low price of $3.45 per fifth of $34.50 per case of 12 fifths. Try this delightful wine — you will like it — or it won't cost you one cent. Come to TAVLIN'S where you will find one of the largest and most complete selections of fine wine in the country - the envy of every wine dealer and a veritable wonderland of wine. Do all of your wine and spirits shopping at TAVLIN'S - you can't do better anywhere else.

Food prices took another big jump during February, according to a survey of three chain stores and one local grocery conducted by the Lincoln Star Women's News staff.

Jumping by two-and three-cent increments, even more, doesn't seem to be much at first glance. But, considered in the long range, that is a substantial amount annually, if not monthly or weekly as the tape total is rung up.

Prices on the surveyed food items now have surpassed mid-August's record high in Lincoln. And that reflects a larger, national trend: Steadily increasing over the past three months, grocery prices have recovered from the two-month drop they suffered last fall shortly after the stunning August increase.

Food prices jumped between 16% and 20% nationally last year and seem to be on an ever-upward climb so far this year.

Among the items suffering the most severe increases over the past month in the four local stores were flour, bread and tuna.

As expected, the wheat shortage has seemingly taken its toll.

Flour cost an average of 11.5 cents per five-pound bag more at the beginning of March than it did the first weekend of February. It now costs an average of $1.16 per sack as compared to 74 cents in late July, just following the thawing of prices on most food items.

After holding at its own at 39 and 40 cents per loaf for several months, the price of bread finally has vaulted over 40 cents. The check of supermarkets over the weekend revealed that bread is now 43 cents per loaf, up three cents generally, over the previous month's going price.

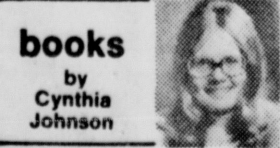

Surprisingly, the cost per pound of meat hasn't changed drastically in the past few months. However, with the exception of whole chickens (which have dropped considerably in price since the lifting of the freeze), the prices still are far above the post-freeze period.

And a carton of eggs cost less this month than last, despite being generally higher (four cents average) than the middle of last summer.

Milk, by the half-gallon, continues its upward climb at most stores. Although the price remained the same at the local grocery, it suffered an average 1.7-cent increase during the month at the chain stores. Combined, that makes a 15.5-cent increase over the seven-month period.

Peanut butter and ketchup seem to be following the route of most other canned, ready-to-eat foods — they are costing about two or three cents more per item these days, following relative price stability over the preceding months.

Prices shown in the chart reflect the most noticeable trends seen during the 10 sampling periods. The first columns of figures for each store are those from the July 28, post-freeze period. Following are from mid-August, when the total prices reached their highest until the most recent survey; late September, when they took a significant drop; and the first three months of this year, respectively, when they began to take significant increases, month by month, eventually reaching this month's all time high for surveyed prices.

books by Cynthia Johnson 'Church Of The Earth: The Ecology Of A Creative Community'

In the appendix to his new book "Church Of The Earth" (Dell), author Robert S. de Ropp offers some helpful hints for those who are contemplating shucking the 40-hour week and heading off to the country to build a rural community: "Soul-glue is the mysterious stuff that holds people together. . . . This is . . . the age of betrayal. Husbands betray wives, wives husband, both betray the children. Nothing is sacred, not even the bond that holds man to the land, though his life depends on the bond. So members of a commune must know how to generate soul-glue or the whole enterprise will fragment, shattered by the divisive spirit of the age."

DeRopp should know. A noted biochemist, who has done research on cancer and mental illness, and author of four previous books, he is a member of a successful three-family rural commune based in Sonoma County, Calif.

His is not the first book of this type. In it he describes what has been described before by other communal dwellers turned authors: The planting, the reaping, the building, the sharing, the joys, the problems.

However, the real strength of de Ropp's book lies not in these accounts of the activities and relationships that define his community. Rather it comes from the author's eloquent elucidation of the philosophy that underpins the venture — that intangible source from which the vital soul-glue is drawn.

First, let it be established — for those who associate communes with long-haired youngsters on a perpetual drug trip — that de Ropp is no (for lack of a better word) "hippie."

In fact he has some interesting words about those hirsute legions. Chiding individuals who wander around "unwashed, unkempt, tangled in beards and beads," he continues,

"The 'hippie' is as much a show-off as his 'square' equivalent, shaved and shorn and waving his little flag. The true member of the Church of the Earth makes no show. He does not try to appear different from his fellows. He goes his own way. He is part of the great experiment and knows it."

There is no room for such showiness in de Ropp's community. Built around three pillars — "the garden, the temple, and the university" — it is a place where hard physical labor (the work of tilling the garden) is accorded a place as important as the work of expanding the mind and the spirit.

"The garden was no place for theorists or talkative professors or for those who wished to speculate about the psyche. In the garden you either worked or went hungry."

The garden exists out of necessity, of course. Man must eat. But there is more to it than that.

De Ropp believes that modern man has grown soft. A slave to the eight-to-five office day syndrome, he is spiritually and physically flabby; relying on machines for his sustenance and entertainment; wallowing in his own neuroses and boredom.

" . . . a shrunken mishappen creature whose technical achievements merely hastened his spiritual decay."

And he believes there is a solution:

"Fold up your phony encounter groups, your sorry head-shrinkers, and send your patients into the hot fields. Let them swing a scythe all day in the blaze of the sun. Then ask them how they feel. Tired, relaxed, free of their miserable egos — too tired to fuss any longer over their neuroses. Full of fresh air and ready to eat and sleep."

Again and again he strikes out at the institutions and practices to which modern man clings.

His religion: "Terrified of some fantastic hell, dreaming of some equally ridiculous heaven, with all this nonsense fermenting in his head, how could he ever hear the song of the earth, the song of life and the song of the sun that gives life."

His way of death: " . . . animals know how to die very well. It was the humans who had lost the art. Moaning and fussing, hemmed in by nurses, doctors, intravenous drips, oxygen tents, pathetically clinging to a worn-out body, they made a miserable spectacle. Alfie the Toff (the author's cat), philosophically resting beneath the vine, his paws tucked under him, enjoying his last few days in the sun, was a far nobler beast than those lamentable humans."

You say de Ropp is idealistic, a dreamer? Yes — he is. We all probably can't, at this point in time, go back to the land.

A few have. A few will.

Many more would laugh at the thought. Wedded to their idea of the "good life," they would rather be swallowed by the culture that will leave no "great temples to proclaim its achievements, only a tangled net of empty freeways, acres of abandoned parking lots, and millions of lost golf balls."

Let them.

And then there are those who honestly yearn for the type of lifestyle de Ropp evvisions — who recognize its value — but who, for one reason or another, will not actively pursue it.

For them there may be some consolation in the thought that, perhaps, in the desiring, the battle is half-won.

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD RAY . . . is very anxious for a family of his own.

'Tell Them Abby Sent You'

DEAR ABBY: I hope to God you can help me. I am 16 years old and pregnant. I really can't understand how this happened. My boy friend promised he would be real careful.

I have got to find a place to go real quick, because there are four girls in our family, and my mom said if any of us ever got that way we may as well pack up and leave home.

My boy friend is joining the Navy and says he will come back and marry me if I wait until May, but I can't wait that long.

What I want you to tell me is where I can go to have my child? I'd like to keep it if possible and come back and finish school. I don't have five cents to my name, but I am willing to work like a horse as long as I can. Please help me.

ALL MESSED UP

DEAR ALL: There is a Booth Memorial Home near you. It's run by the Salvation Army, and a more kind and generous group of people would be hard to find. Tell them Abby sent you. May God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was a young bride when her husband went overseas in the service. She wrote to him every day. She was lucky if she got a letter from him once every three weeks, and when he did write he said things like, "I am leaving my wedding ring in the drawer and am having myself a good time." She used to cry herself to sleep every night.

I said to her, "Don't be a fool. Don't write to him for three weeks. Then write that you decided to leave your wedding ring in the drawer, too, and you are also now having a good time. In the next letter, write and tell him you met a lovely man who is making you forget your loneliness."

Abby, it worked like a charm. Her husband started to write every day, asking her questions, and telling her how much he loved her.

Everything worked out just like I thought it would. By the time he got home, they were madly in love. I believe in fighting fire with fire.

MAMMA KNOWS BEST

DEAR MAMMA: Not all sick marriages respond to the same treatment. In your daughter's case, it worked. But usually when people fight fire with fire, they end up with ashes.

Opening lead — ten of spades.

It would be wonderful to always see the defenders' hands when you become declarer. Presumably, in such case, you'd get every possible trick out of each hand played.

But, alas, bridge isn't played that way and you must do the best you can without seeing the adverse cards. This doesn't mean you'll necessarily suffer because of restricted vision; on the contrary, on most hands your results should parallel what you could accomplish if you saw all 52 cards.

Take this case where East wins the spade lead and plays another spade, which you win with the king. There are now eleven sure winners, come what may.

There are two suits in which you can hope to score the all-important twelfth trick. One is clubs, where cashing the A-K might conceivably drop the queen and make dummy's jack a trick. The other is diamonds, where you might nail the queen either by attempting a finesse or by cashing the A-K.

Note that in the actual hand both methods would fail. But note also that correct play makes the slam. The proper approach is to thoroughly investigate the distribution before playing the key suit, diamonds.

Accordingly, you cash the queen of spades, ace of diamonds, A-K of clubs and five heart tricks. This reduces your holding to two cards, namely, the K-J of diamonds.

As these tricks are cashed, you learn that West started with precisely two spades, one heart, seven clubs and hence three diamonds. When you play dummy's last heart, you know

17 Solons Oppose ETV Coverage

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Although they failed in the effort, 17 of Nebraska's 49 state senators Wednesday voted to close the remainder of their 1974 session to daily coverage by educational television's cameras.

Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca, disturbed by the educational television network's failure to include a specific debate in its half-hour coverage Tuesday night, offered the motion to remove the cameras from the legislative chamber.

The Carsten motion lost on a 17-26 vote.

Carsten said his motion did not spring only from Tuesday night's coverage, but was also the result of his belief that daily gavel-to-gavel taping of the Unicameral's floor action delays the legislative progress and results in campaigning by some senators.

Carsten suggested that ETV coverage be limited to a weekly review of legislative action.

A number of senators said the nightly half-hour review of floor action has sparked favorable comment in their districts. But there was some biting criticism of senatorial use of the ETV cameras for political exposure.

Carsten said ETV should have included some of the debate on LB1028, a bill establishing an antitrust division in the Department of Justice, in its Tuesday night show.

That proposal, which is of "extreme importance" to the state, and particularly to cattle feeders, was "completely ignored," Carsten said, while the program centered on two other measures.

(Most of the program was devoted to debate on gubernatorial vetoes of drug control bills, the proposed spending limit for schools and proposed merger of the Omaha School District with District 66.)

Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh noted that the debate on LB1028 revolved about a motion only to place the bill at the top of the list for floor discussion.

When the bill is actually debated "on its merits" would be a more proper time for full coverage, he suggested.

Carsten said he recognizes that the ETV staff has "a tremendous job" editing a day's floor activities into a half-hour program.

Sen. Dave Stahmer of Omaha said legislative concern should center on commercial television, rather than ETV.

Commercial television does "a poor job" of covering the Legislature, Stahmer said. In particular, he pointed to Omaha stations which are more concerned about "a mayor running around in a bunny suit" or similar instances of "Mickey Mouse."

His voice dripping with sarcasm, Ren. Robert Clark of Sidney said Carsten's suggestion would "not be fair to our candidates."

The Legislature features two gubernatorial aspirants, three candidates for lieutenant governor, a candidate for state auditor and a candidate for state treasurer (its presiding officer, Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh), Clark said.

As for himself, Clark said, "I don't watch the program. I can't stand re-runs. I'm not going to look at that kind of junk at night."

Sens. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha and Fred Carstens of Beatrice said the Legislature progressed more smoothly before the ETV cameras were moved in — chiefly at the instigation of Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Government should "open up its procedures" as fully as possible, Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said.

And "the Legislature shouldn't get into the position of editing the news," Sen. John Savage of Omaha suggested.

Here is the vote on Carsten's motion to remove the ETV cameras from the chamber for the remainder of the 1974 session:

For: Burbach, C. Carsten, Dickinson, Epke, Hasebroock, Johnson, Kennedy, Kremer, R. Lewis, Mahoney, Moylan, Rasmussen, Richendifer, Stromer, Warner, Whitley, Witte.
Against: Anderson, Barnett, Carpenter, F. Carstens, Cavanaugh, Chambers, Clark, DeCamp, Fowler, Goodrich, Kelly, Keyes, F. Lewis, Luetke, Marsh, Marsh, Marvel, Murphy, Nore, Savage, Simpson, Snyder, Stahmer, Stull, Syas, Waldron.
Absent: Duis, Fellman, Kime, Proud, Schmit, Skarda.

Retirement — Heard and held LB786.

Committee Hears Bills To Help Retired Teachers, NU Employees

By United Press International

The Legislature's Retirement Committee took under consideration Wednesday bills to give cost of living increases to retired public school teachers and University of Nebraska employees.

Presented to the committee were LB841, sponsored by Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln, and LB786, sponsored by Sen. Harold Moylan of Omaha.

Simpson's bill would grant university employees a cost of living increase but would be limited to those enrolled in the retirement plan in use prior to 1961.

The committee staff said first year costs of the bill would amount to $406,380.

Kraft To Run For Treasurer

Erv Kraft, 40, of Lincoln filed Wednesday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer.

A lifelong Lincoln resident, he operated the Kraft Parking Co. in downtown Lincoln for 16 years. Prior to that he was associated with the firm of Kraft & Sons.

Kurt D. Rasmussen of Omaha previously filed for the Democratic nomination, and Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh is seeking the Republican nomination for state treasurer.

In addition to covering employees who retired under the old plan, special provisions would be made for employees who retired prior to 1956 who weren't eligible for Social Security benefits. They would receive $90 a month plus normal retirement benefits.

The staff said the increase formula contained in the bill would grant most a 50% increase in benefits.

Under Moylan's bill for school teachers, at least a 3% cost of living increase would be allowed each year. The actual increase would depend on the cost of living index.

John Lynch of Lincoln, executive secretary of the state education association, said the action taken by the Legislature last year to increase teacher retirement benefits was fine but it was a one time only increase.

No estimate of costs was available on the bill and amendments were proposed during the hearing.

Royalty To Visit U.S.

London (UPI) — Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon will visit the United States from May 2 to May 9 before going to Canada, a Kensington Palace spokesman said.

Col. C. P. Karthaus, State Patrol superintendent, asked the increase provisions be expanded to include retired patrolmen.

There are now 26 officers and four widows drawing retirement benefits, Karthaus said, and on that basis the increase expected would cost about $10,000 a year.

Another amendment was offered which would extend cost of living increase provisions to all state employees.

The committee did not act on the amendments.

Omahans File For Legislature

Three Omahans filed Wednesday for legislative seats. Christine M. Kneif filed for the legislative seat of David Stahmer. Virginia B. Patterson and Mal Adams filed for the seat of Duke Snyder.

Both Snyder and Stahmer have announced that they will not run again.

Bill Change
Try Fails

By The Associated Press

Sen. J. James Waldron of North Platte fell one vote short of succeeding in a last ditch effort Wednesday to rewrite a pending consumer protection bill.

The test came as LB327 showed up for final passage, and the floor debate represented a rerun of debates which have attended the measure twice previously on the floor.

Waldron needed 25 approving votes to return the bill to select file for amendments he advocated. The vote was 24-22, but lawmakers later returned the bill for some purely corrective technical amendments.

The bill originated with an interim committee on advertising headed by Waldron, but was rewritten recently on the floor at the urging of Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City.

Both the Waldron and Murphy versions outlaw so-called pyramid sales, but Waldron's version vests authority in the attorney general's office to handle consumer complaints related to unfair, deceptive or unconscionable sales practices. The Murphy version broadens the scope of the present deceptive trade practices act.

Waldron termed it "the most important bill the legislature will deal with this year," except for appropriations.

Two Child Support Payment Crackdown Measures Advance

By The Associated Press

Two bills designed to crack down on divorced fathers who fail to make child support payments as scheduled earned preliminary approval in the Legislature Wednesday afternoon.

Advanced from general file in their initial floor tests were:

LB957, authorizing courts to suspend the driver's license of a father who becomes delinquent more than 60 days in court-ordered child support payments.

LB961, authorizing district courts to appoint attorneys to bring contempt proceedings against fathers in payment delinquency cases.

Both measures were sponsored by Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, who said uncollected child support payments run to the millions of dollars and "you'll not collect it by slapping wrists."

The drive license suspension bill was advanced 28-10, and the other bill, 28-0.

Sen. John J. Cavanaugh III of Omaha, a lawyer, questioned the constitutionality of the driver license bill, as did others.

But Sen. Schmit said "this is not the place to decide constitutionality."

"Noncompliance in this area is unbelievable," said Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue.

"I think we need to tighten down the screws," said Schmit.

The question of constitutionality revolves around the use of a driver license suspension as penalty for something not related to driving or traffic.

The bill directs courts to permit fathers to continue to drive if essential to their employment, but only for employment purposes.

Bill To Create Antitrust Division Gets Initial OK

By The Associated Press

The legislature gave first round approval Wednesday to a bill that would create an antitrust division in the attorney general's office.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood asked for the division after his committee held hearings on alleged price manipulations in the beef industry.

Schmit said that chain supermarkets were using their buying power to keep live beef prices low.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff introduced a companion bill to LB1028 that would give the division $250,000 for operation during its first year.

Carpenter said that would pay for one or two attorneys and their staff.

Amendments to the bill offered by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer give the division sweeping power to investigate.

The division can subpoena a witness and search records.

The new division, according to the bill, can bring suit on behalf of the state and recover damages for the citizens.

Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa said that the division should look into possible antitrust violations in the cement and gravel industries.

Carpenter said that he knew of no industry outside of the beef industry that was of immediate concern.

Vietnam Vets Tuition Loan Bill Gets Preliminary OK

The Legislature gave preliminary approval Wednesday to a bill that would provide tuition loans to Vietnam veterans.

The bill would allow the state to give 200 loans to veterans at 5% interest to be paid back during a 10-year period starting nine months after the veteran finishes school.

The Legislature dropped

Bill To Remove U.S. Citizenship Provisions OKd

Nebraska's Legislature decreed Wednesday that a person need not be a U.S. citizen to be licensed as a doctor or dentist or landscape architect.

Passed and sent to the governor was a bill removing from state law a host of provisions relating to the citizenship requirement.

The measure, LB811, provides that citizenship shall no longer be required for a wide variety of licensed medical and health service practitioners, certified public accountants, holders of civil service positions and others.

Liquor Freight Costs Bill Is Advanced

By The Associated Press

A bill designed to equalize freight costs on liquor shipments throughout the state survived a late kill attempt in the legislature Wednesday and will show up for final passage soon.

Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha attempted the kill of LB616, but received only 7 supporting votes, 20 opposed.

The bill applies a uniform service charge of $1.50 per case on liquor in lieu of freight costs. Thus a western Nebraska liquor retailer, buying from an Omaha supplier, would pay the same delivered price as an Omaha retailer.

The bill also provides a mandatory markup of 15 per cent over wholesale price and service charge, except that distress merchandise can be sold at any price.

Sen. Glenn Goodrich of Omaha called the distress merchandise provision "a loophole you can drive a tank through."

Goodrich moved to strike the $1.50 service charge provision but was rebuffed 12-19.

He said the uniform service charge would increase costs to retailers in the eastern two-thirds or three-fourths of Nebraska to the benefit of western Nebraska retailers.

Snyder, in moving to kill, said "I'm against any type of guaranteed markup. I'm also against selling below cost."

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, a liquor dealer and sponsor of LB616, insisted he had no personal interest in the bill and said there has been no objection from dealers. He suggested the bill be kept alive and intact, and that lawmakers seek the reaction of constituents when home over the weekend.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Thursday

Jockeys born under Taurus do their best riding on grass or off-track conditions, such as mud. For a steady ride, choose the jockey born under this zodiacal sign. The big horse, the large animal who must be made to understand who is boss, is made to order for this rider. Taurus jockeys bring more horses in the money during the month of September.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do more analyzing than confronting — your position needs reinforcement. Persons who are supposed to perform basic services might let down on the job. Know it and don't commit yourself. Wait, listen and observe.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Avoid acting on impulse. Count "ten" before making response to accusation. Tavoral claim, deliberate you are, the better for you. Know it and act like you are aware of it. Smooth-talking individual may be trying to trap you, using flattery as a weapon. Be wary!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Much that could be clouded by wishful thinking. It may not be easy, but it is necessary now to be factual. Otherwise, you will be embarrassed. Appear to be a specialist to relationships with opposite sex.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Hold off on journeys. Overcome temptation to bicker with neighbors, relatives. Many around you now appear stubborn, heavy-handed. Ride with the tide. Conditions, as they exist, are but temporary. You actually are due for good financial news.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Some desires are fulfilled only after they are revised. A more realistic approach is necessary. Don't hang on to losing proposition. Let go of past. Prepare for future. Aries, Libra persons could figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cycle is high but nothing is set in stone on proverbial silver platter. Take initiative. Make your own luck. Blustering associate tests your mettle. Eliminate safety hazard at place of residence. Take no unnecessary chances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Go slow despite urging of one who has head in clouds. Heed inner voice. Follow through on hunch — but keep logic right up front. Aquarian figures — important way. Double-check behind the scenes. Separate fact from illusion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friends may quarrel. Keep sense of humor. Highlight versatility. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Deal with Gargantuan, Gemini persons. Don't promise more than you can deliver. Study Libra message.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be aware of fine points, apparently minor details. Associate who is supposed to perform — let it be. Be negligent. Know it and ask questions. Obtain answers, not evasions. Be thorough. Ignore other talks fast but has little to back assertions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money and emotions make powerful mixture. Nothing is set in stone. Others need and think and desire. April will be a most significant month for you this year. Persons born under Pisces and Virgo seem to be drawn to you. You are selective, at times autocratic, but nearly always for the underdog. You are introspective and loyal; you also are easily hurt and often see persons only as you wish they could be.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be selective. Choose quality. Turn down secondhand products. You have right to the best — show it and know it and make others realize it, too. Decision time is due regarding marriage, partnership, joint effort. Let others have their say before committing yourself.

Cattle Trade Is Uneven

Omaha — National Livestock Feeders Assn. Market Report:
Estimated cattle slaughter on Wednesday totaled 117,000 head. For the week cattle slaughter totaled 354,000 head, up from 348,000 the week before. Beef from last week's slaughter was 180,000 head, up from 178,000 the week before. Pork from last week's slaughter was 170,000 head, up from 170,000 the week before.

Choice steers 3 led the market at $42.75-$43.00 for 1,157-1,170 lb. offerings. Four loads choice to weigh 3,175-3,240 lb. 2.4, 41.50.

One small lot of choice to prime steers noted 43.25. Most choice under 1,150 lb. with 2-4 rating brought 41.00-42.25, heavier 3-4s 40.00-41.50.

There were choice heifers

Steady declines in wholesale pork prices backed a 75-150 lower deal for butcher hogs. Sows sold 1.00-1.50. Fat lambs sold weak in a volume 100-150; about 50 per cent of the remainder in live weight. DRESSED: steers strong to heavy; steers steady. Weight only: high-grade choice steers 500-800 lb 55.50-66.50, some 67.00; choice prime 700-900 lb 63.00-65.00. High-grade choice hogs 500-700 lb 75.00-80.00. LIVE: sales firm. Choice steers 2.10-51.20 lb and mixed good choice 40-120 lb, some 41.75; choice-prime 1.20-43.50.

SPARTANS TOP LHS

... Hedberg Paces East Effort

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

If Lincoln East left some doubts in two regular season games against Lincoln High, the third-ranked Spartans answered them Wednesday night in the first round of the Class A-1 District Basketball Tournament.

Buoyed by 6-8 Curt Hedberg's 26 points and 19 rebounds, East hit the Links, 55-40, before a disappointingly small turnout of 2,600 at Pershing Auditorium.

East had recorded a pair of 2-point wins over Lincoln High during the regular season, but assumed complete command the third time out, leading from start to finish over the outmanned, but ever-hustling Links.

"Three's enough times to play them," East coach Paul Forch said after his club's 15th win in 17 games. "They (Lincoln High) really hustle. They caused us some more problems but I think we polished up most of our mistakes we'd made the first two games against them."

Hedberg supplied most of East's right answers. He hit four first quarter baskets, including a pair after grabbing the offensive rebounds.

By halftime, Hedberg had accumulated half of East's 32-point total in assuming a 13-point lead. The Links battled back in the third quarter, but never edged closer than 11 points.

After pulling within 38-29 early in the fourth period, Hedberg hit six of East's next eight points to push the Spartans to a commanding 46-29 bulge.

"We played good defense in the first half, but didn't get much second half momentum," observed Forch. "But at least we maintained a comfortable lead. We've blown leads in the other two games."

"We played better man-to-man defense, scored more points and had more offensive movement," added Forch, "but we still need better consistency."

"We tried to limit them (the Links) to one shot and did a pretty good job of that," according to Forch. "We went to Hedberg in the second half mainly because (Steve) Woods and (Scott) Sughroue had four fouls."

The strategy worked well. Hedberg canned nine of his 15 field goal attempts and deposited all eight free throw tries. Twelve of the all-state candidate's rebounds were grabbed off the offensive boards.

"He's given us so many performances like that this season," Forch said of Hedberg, adding "they never get old."

Hoyt Nye, who hit eight points in helping stake East to its first half lead, joined Hedberg in double scoring figures with 10.

The Spartans shot 39 per cent from the field (19-49). Lincoln High continued to be plagued by cold shooting. The Links managed only 33 per cent from the field (15-45).

Junior guard Mick Houlihan was the only Lincoln High player reaching twin scoring digits with 10. Woods, the one who almost helped the Links upset the Spartans two weeks ago, got only two shooting opportunities before fouling out with 6:27 remaining.

Teammate Sughroue fouled out less than a minute later, forcing Lincoln High coach Alden Johnson to use wholesale substitutions in the late going.

Lincoln High finished with a 5-12 season's record.

Forch claims he has no preference about which team he'd like to play in Saturday night's finals at Pershing.

"There's incentive for us to want to play either Northeast or East," says Forch. "It's not the team as much as it is the goal."

Southeast, which owns a late season upset over East and seven wins in its last 10 games, battles Northeast Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Pershing for the right to meet East.

Coach Wally McNaught's Knights have been slowed because of sickness to three starters — Fred Schmid, Tom McNaught and Randy Cipriano — and one substitute, Hal Dobson.

Schuyler Gains Finals

By FRANK HOPPE
Star Sports Writer

Fremont — Schuyler advanced to the finals of the Class B-4 District Basketball Tournament here Wednesday night behind a 74-60 thrashing of top-seeded David City Aquinas at Midland College.

As Aquinas jumped to an early 10-7 lead, Schuyler coach Jay Muma pulled his starters, put in his bench strength with more than three minutes remaining in the first quarter.

Then, with less than two minutes to go in the first quarter, the starters returned with the score at 14-7. Two turnovers and a long bucket at the buzzer by 6-4 junior Phil Hovis narrowed Aquinas' margin to 14-12.

In the second quarter, senior John Dufek dropped a 30-foot jumper at the 3:20 mark to put Schuyler ahead to stay at 25-24, while Kevin Benesch added 12 points on 5-for-5 field goals and 2-2 free throws.

The vicious man-to-man Warrior defense stole the ball twice to score and Dufek hit another 30-footer as Schuyler stretched its lead to 33-26 at halftime.

Aquinas, determined to comeback in the second half, cut Schuyler's lead to two at 39-37, but the Warriors proved too hot to handle as they connected for 12 straight points in the last four minutes of the third quarter while holding Aquinas scoreless.

With the score 55-39 entering the final period, Aquinas once again made a strong comeback bid. Behind an 11-point fourth-quarter effort by 6-3 senior Rich Gillespie, the Monarchs cut Schuyler's lead to 67-58.

But Schuyler resumed command in the closing minutes, scoring the game's final six points to capture its 15th decision in 20 games.

"We took the good percentage shot and hit them," Schuyler coach Muma said after the game. "And our game plan on defense worked real well."

The defensive game plan was

Paxton Takes Regional Win

Cozad — Paxton came from a 44-38 halftime deficit to register a 77-66 D-7 Regional Tournament victory over Pleasanton here Wednesday night.

Paxton advanced to the Class D State Basketball Tournament in Lincoln next weekend.

Raymond Central Nets Initial State Berth

Firth — Raymond Central captured its first berth ever in the state tournament Wednesday night as the Mustangs romped over Wilber 78-50, in the C-5 regional tournament at Norris High School.

Central, which has only been in existence since 1967 used the hot outside shooting guard Jerry Otto and the inside play of 6-5 center Brian Ubben to easily outclass coach Dave Oman's youthful Wolverines.

Otto, a slick 6-2 senior, popped in 16 points in the first half with Ubben adding 11 more as the Mustangs moved to a commanding 44-22 halftime lead enabling coach Bill Hellerich's club to coast the rest of the way.

"I really thought it would be an easy win for us," Hellerich said. "We knew Wilber would run a man-to-man defense and we have played well against that type of defense."

With the Wolverines, who started four underclassmen, showing early-game jitters by turning the ball over eight times in the first quarter, Central gained a 19-9 advantage as an overflow crowd of 1,800 viewed the action.

Ubben, the muscular junior pivotman, held Wilber's high scoring center Russ Andersen to only 4 points in the first half and the Mustangs were off and winging to their eighteenth win against only five defeats this season.

Not content with its 20-point margin, Central opened the third quarter with Otto hitting four long jumpers to capture a comfortable 51-24 advantage.

Wilber's troubles were multiplied when forward Mike Neimeyer fouled out early in the third period. Neimeyer had been the only consistent scorer for the Wolverines up to that point with 12 tallies.

Central displayed a year-long trait of balanced scoring by placing four players in double figures. Otto led all scorers with 28 points while captain Dan Pecka added 14, Ubben 13, and junior guard Craig Schnieder 12.

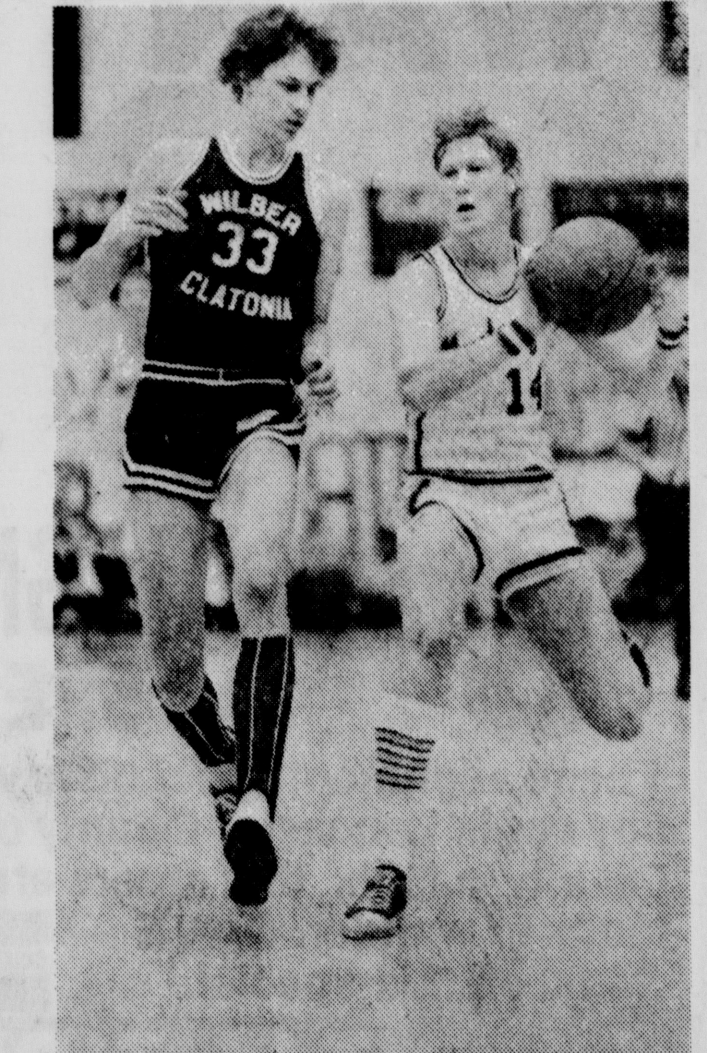

Anderson, Wilber's 6-5 center, finally got untracked in the second half to lead the Wolverines' attack with 15 points.

Craig Slepicka chipped in 10 along with Neimeyer's 12.

Hellerich, who has been at Central for all but one of the school's eight years, said he was confident about next week's state tourney.

"I honestly think we can win it all," he said. "Our only trouble might be if we draw Howells (defending champion) early and we might suffer a letdown if we draw them."

Wilber ends the year with a 15-7 record and the valuable experience gained from a district championship and the regional playoff to return with those four starters next year.

7 Squads Gain State

Seven teams Wednesday night qualified for next week's State High School Basketball Tournament in Lincoln with district and regional tourney victories.

Second-rated Omaha Central became the first Class A qualifier with a 49-46 win over fifth-rated Omaha Westside at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Half of the Class C state tournament field is set with West Point, Raymond Central, Palmyra and Sandy Creek qualifying for the Lincoln carnival.

West Point clipped Laurel, 55-42, at Norfolk. Raymond Central handily Wilber, 78-50, at Norris. Palmyra blasted 1973 state Class D runnerup Yutan, 59-37. Sandy Creek was the only qualifying team tested, capturing a 46-42 win over Centura at Grand Island.

Paxton and Falls City Sacred Heart became the first two Class D qualifiers for the state tourney. Paxton rallied from a 6-point halftime deficit to defeat Pleasanton, 77-66, at Cozad and Sacred Heart hit Elmwood, 64-59 at Nebraska City.

Sandy Creek Tops Centura

Grand Island — Sandy Creek, bolstered by Bruce Hansen's 19 points, came back from a five-point first quarter deficit to edge Cairo Centura, 46-42, in a regional playoff here Wednesday night and advance to the Class C State Basketball Tournament in Lincoln.

Centura was led by Tim Mohanna who collected 18 points in the losing effort.

Crete Rally Spills Centennial, 64-61

York — The Crete Cardinals rescued themselves from the brink of defeat to edge Centennial, 64-61, in semifinal action at the B-5 district basketball tournament Wednesday night.

Coach Walt Harris' club trailed Centennial by 10 points with just 2:30 to play.

But the number six ranked Cardinals stormed back to tally 12 points while Centennial was limited to a pair of freethrows.

Centennial looked as if it would succeed in its upset bid until Daryl Wittstruck scored his only three points of the game with 53 seconds remaining. His basket and free throw completed a three-point play to pull Crete within two at 60-58.

Then it was sophomore Mark Erickson, son of Doane college coach Bob Erickson, and Loren Weiderspan who took over to snatch a victory away from the underdog Broncos.

Against a full-court press, Erickson snared Centennials' inbound pass and pumped in a fielder to knot the count at 60-60.

The next time the Broncos got the ball inbounded but the first cross court pass was intercepted by Erickson who tallied again to put Crete in front 62-60.

Centennial's Tim Pozehl faced a pair of crucial free throws with 11 seconds left. He made the

Knights Set To Attend USD

Vermillion, S.D. — Two Lincoln Southeast football players have been awarded full football scholarships to attend the University of South Dakota.

South Dakota assistant coach Joe Glenn announced that 6-5, 205-pound all-city tackle Gary Gilson and 6-3, 195-pound defensive end John Lohrborg are the Knights earning full scholarships.

South Dakota finished 8-3 last season under coach Joe Salem.

first but missed the second and Crete's Weiderspan was fouled when he pulled down the rebound.

The senior calmly sank both charity tosses to produce the final score.

Highly favored Crete led by as much as 7 points in the first quarter before Centennial started its surge. The Broncos pulled in front 33-31 at halftime and zoomed in front by 12 points just before the end of the third quarter. Then the tide began to turn and the Broncos failed to hold on in the closing moments.

Nebraska Signs 24 To National Letters

By Associated Press

Curtis Craig of Davenport, Iowa, one of the most sought-after prep football players in Iowa history, was among 24 high school standouts signing national letters of intent with the University of Nebraska Wednesday.

Craig, a tailback, powered Davenport Central to the class AAAA state football championships last fall and was a unanimous all-state selection.

At a news conference in Davenport, Craig said he had visited Iowa, Iowa State, Michigan and Notre Dame, as well as Nebraska, and had planned to check out the Southern California program, but didn't get around to it.

He said the Nebraska coaching staff promised him he would be used strictly on offense, probably at I-back.

Craig said the NU coaching staff told him Tony Davis, the Huskers' No. 1 I-back last season, would be moved to fullback next season.

The 5-11, 180-pound Craig, who also lettered in track and wrestling, had signed a Big Eight letter of intent to attend Nebraska last month.

Another top back who signed Wednesday was Kim Mix, a 6-2, 210-pound speedster from Columbus, Ohio, who had not signed a Big Eight letter of intent.

All 11 of the Nebraska players who earlier had signed Big Eight letters signed national letters Wednesday to become Cornhuskers.

They are George Andrews, Mike Thompson, Darrell Walton and Roger Williams, all of Omaha; Monte Anthony, Bellevue; Ted Harvey, Lexington; Tom Ohrt, Millard; Randy Poeschl, Fremont; Budge Porter, Nebraska City; Tom Ridder, West Point; and James Pillen, Monroe.

Out-of-state signers included Bill Barnett, Afton, Minn.; Jon Kroneberger, Salina, Kan.; Steven Lindquist, Minneapolis, Minn.; Robert Link Jr., Boulder, Colo.; Paul Walderzak, Saginaw, Mich.; Jake Cabell, Danville, Va.; Kevin Clark, Odessa, Tex.; Randy Dudley, Belleville, Md.; Tom Sorley, Big Spring, Tex.; and Byron Stewart, Oxenhill, Md.

"We feel we had a very fine recruiting year," Coach Tom Osborne said. "This group has more over-all speed than any group we've recruited in recent years."

Of the Nebraska recruits, Osborne said: "We've made it a practice not to single out any individual Nebraska player as more valuable than another. We know more about Nebraska players than we do players from other areas, however, and we feel this is one of the finest groups we have recruited. We are particularly pleased that all 11 student-athletes we offered scholarships to signed with Nebraska."

Huskers' Hopes High For Big Eight Meet

Nebraska's swimming team will attempt to escape the cellar, a position it has held for the last two years, as the Huskers compete in the 41st Annual Big Eight Conference Swimming Championships, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Boulder, Colorado.

"For the last two weeks our kids have looked sharp," Nebraska swim coach John Reta said. "It's just a question if our tapering was right. We've been resting them and at the same time trying to keep them sharp."

Several Huskers were cited by Reta who have a chance to place well in the conference meet and also qualify for the NCAA Championships, March 28, 29 and 30 in Long Beach, Calif. Those mentioned were freshmen Bill Davis (200-yard freestyle), John Williams (200-yard individual medley) and Jack Alexander (1650-yard freestyle, along with sophomores Terry Reding and Stu Waterbury competing in the 100-yard breaststroke.

"A young team like ours can surprise anyone," he said. "Someone may break through and win something unexpectedly and hopefully this will happen."

Reta said that six time defending champion Kansas is again the favorite in this year's Big Eight meet. "Earlier this year I thought Iowa State would give Kansas a run for the title," he said. "But now I don't think so because of Kansas' excellent distance and middle distance swimmers."

Because of the problems due to the altitude, the energy crisis, high costs and pool facilities at Colorado, Reta is not "overly enthused" with the meet being held in Boulder.

"Altitude problems were proven when the NCAA Championships were held at the Air Force Academy a few years ago," he said. "Times in the 400, 500 and 1650 were slower, so the altitude is bound to have an effect, this isn't a myth but a fact."

Because of the altitude, an undetermined amount of seconds will be subtracted from the times in the 200, 400, 500 and 1650-yard races so the times will equal sea level standards.

Reta said if the energy crisis continues a more central location should be found for the Big Eight meet. "The cost is quite high for us to go out there," he said. "And the Colorado students control the operation of the pool so we're limited as to our practice time before the meet. It doesn't seem fair to go all that distance and not be able to swim."

Despite the problems, Reta said that he expects a very good meet because competing are "the finest crop of Big Eight swimmers I've seen in eight years."

Racing Tax Halted Again

The Legislature Wednesday refused to revive a proposed hike in the state's parimutuel betting tax.

The Legislature refused Wednesday on a 14-15 vote — 25 approving votes were needed — to revive Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit's LB931, which the Revenue Committee had killed on a 7-0 vote.

LB931 would have raised the tax from 5% to 6% on gross betting receipts in excess of $1 million at each horse racing track.

Schmit told the Legislature that the hike could bring an additional $1 million into the state treasury.

"This is not going to hurt racing," Schmit said, citing the intent of Nebraska's racing laws to promote racing and horse breeding.

Crofton Sen. Jules Burbach, chairman of the Revenue Committee, said that panel killed the bill because the Legislature just last year voted a 1% betting tax increase.

"There comes a point of no return," Burbach said. "You can not annually increase a tax by 20% to 25%."

Synchronized Swimming Set

The Synchronized Swimming Club at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the Aquagettes, will present its annual water show Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Women's Physical Education Building pool.

This year's production focuses on "This Is My Country" and the swimmers relate to various sections of the United States through music, movement, costumes, and lighting.

All three performances are at 8 p.m. and are open to the public. Tickets may be reserved or purchased at the door.

Listen: You've tried some whiskeys that growl. Now try a new kind of whiskey. Crow Light. It whispers.

Take a sip of Crow Light. We think you'll agree that other whiskeys—even the lightest Scotch, smoothest Canadian or mildest Blend—taste heavier by comparison.

And that's the way it should be. Crow Light is an entirely new and different kind of whiskey created to be the lightest whiskey ever made in America.

Lighter than Scotch, smoother than Canadian

Crow Light is light...lighter than Scotch in color and taste. And if you think Canadian is the smoothest whiskey you'll ever taste, try Crow Light. "Crow Light is smoother," say the Canadian whiskey drinkers we've talked to.

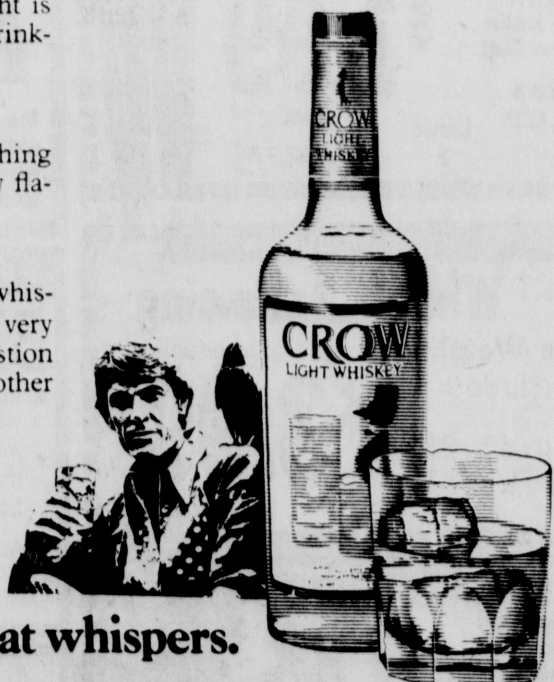

Mixing whiskey

Try a Crow Light Sour or anything else mixed. Crow Light's light whiskey flavor mixes unusually well.

Real whiskey down to its toes

Crow Light is real, 4-year-old whiskey, all right. But it's distilled and aged a very special way. Result: The gentlest suggestion of whiskey flavor—and lightness no other kind of whiskey can touch.

Some whiskeys growl. But Crow Light Whiskey whispers. And you can get a lot farther with a whisper than a growl.

Crow Light. The whiskey that whispers.

Caseworkers In Collecting 'Ill-Conceived'

State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham Wednesday described as "unnecessary and ill-conceived" a new federal regulation putting welfare caseworkers into the business of collecting Medicaid premiums.

He said the cost of collecting $1 or $2 a month in premiums from each of Nebraska's medically needy would far exceed the premiums.

Graham said that under the new Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulation effective April 15, county welfare offices would be required to collect a federal premium from an estimated 8,000 Nebraskans who are eligible for medical assistance but do not receive federal supplemental security income or state supplement. He said the regulation would require an estimated 96,000 caseworker contacts annually with Medicaid recipients.

Graham said Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., has agreed to sponsor corrective legislation at the earliest opportunity.

Under the regulation, Medicaid recipients who failed to pay the monthly premium would lose their eligibility.

Dental Group Plans Workshop

The Nebraska Dental Association will hold an all-day workshop Thursday beginning at 9 a.m. on third-party dentistry, a practice by which an agency such as an insurance company or the government pays an individual's dental bills.

The workshop will be at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel.

Dr. F. Gene Dixon, executive director of the California Dental Service Corporation, will discuss how California handles the situation.

Three representatives of Aetna Insurance Co. and one from Blue Cross-Blue Shield will explain how insurance companies handle this type of dentistry.

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR FRIENDS:

In my letter last week I mentioned that to go camping was a healthful, clean, family style recreation that in fact saves energy if you will turn your house off when you leave. Some of you asked how this could be. I have listed some items here for your review.

Item: Which consumes more gasoline: A family using two cars at home or a family using one at a campground? Item: Which takes more energy to heat: The standard 6 gallon water heater in a RV Camping Vehicle or a 60 gallon tank at home? Item: There are less electrical appliances in a RV than there are in most homes. Item: Which takes more fuel to heat: A compact camper or a house? Item: Doubling up on rides is a good idea: Have you ever seen anybody driving to a campsite alone? Item: Which takes less gas to heat up? A small oven in a RV or a bigger size oven in your home? Item: Which uses more energy: A 100 watt bulb at home or a 25 watt (12 volt) bulb in a camper? Item: Which uses more energy: The small RV refrigerator or the jumbo one at home? Item: Which takes less energy to Air Condition: A five-room house, or a compact RV? (Of course, nature's own campground breezes are the best air conditioning of all.)

We believe you will wish to leave your home this summer and have some fun. Our way is the way to go.

Finally, do we have a thought on governmental policy regarding energy? Yes! Get the government out of the problem and let the economic process that made our country great, operate, i.e. FREE ENTERPRISE.

Our friends in Washington with all their meddling bureaucracy will never achieve the production levels that a free economy will develop in a much shorter time nor will they ever achieve the low prices using price controls, that competition will bring about in quick order. It only took them (the politicians and bureaucrats) a few months to play havoc with the beef industry. In energy they seem to be making plans to do the same thing for years. It appears that we should make incumbency the primary hazard for politicians the next few years.

It is our pleasure to serve you. We invite you to our firm, if only to look. That too is fun and fun is our product. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Willard E. Woldt

Meany Urges Congress To Let Controls Expire

Washington (UPI) — President George Meany of the AFL-CIO asked Congress Wednesday to let wage-price controls expire next month "without any ifs, ands or buts."

He said the American Housewife — by exercising discretion when prices go too high — would do a better job of combating inflation than President Nixon has managed during 30 months of controls.

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., a conservative, praised Meany's position, leading liberal Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., to say, "When George Meany and John Tower get in bed together, I think I'd better take a good hard look."

Stevenson expressed fear that an abrupt end of economic controls on April 30, when the Economic Stabilization Act is to

Task Forces Give Reports To Commission

The City-County Implementation Commission (CCIC) heard progress reports from the Fire Protection and Public Works task forces Wednesday.

Task force member Gay Blank reported that a study of emergency medical services needs in the county indicate that better services are needed.

He reported that it takes ambulances dispatched from Lincoln 30 to 35 minutes to reach a location on the edge of the county. National standards set 20 minutes as the maximum relief time, he said.

Additionally, Blank suggested that better signing is needed on county roads to help the traveler pinpoint the location in case of an emergency.

James Blackman of the public works task force reported that the committee is looking at consolidating traffic engineering efforts between the city and county.

expire, would lead to "a severe round of inflation." He proposed a gradual phase-out of controls.

"You take controls off, you may have a chaotic situation for a few weeks," Meany replied, "but the market place will correct it." Tower beamed.

Testifying before a Senate banking subcommittee, Meany predicted that living costs would rise by 15% this year, compared to last year's inflation rate of 8.8%. He called the threat of accelerating inflation "very, very serious."

Even the administration opposes going as far as Meany proposed. It wants to retain authority to impose price controls on the health care sector of the economy and to block implementation of labor contracts providing for reopening negotiations after controls expire.

That last proposal drew Meany's fire. "Through the operation of such authority," he said, "the President could extend the one-sided, inequitable controls on the wages of many workers, after mandatory controls are ended."

Meany denounced Nixon's administration of controls.

He said the program "has been unjust and inequitable from its very beginning. It has been heavily weighted in favor of big business and the banks, against the worker and consumer. Workers' wages have been held down in the only effective part of the program. Prices, profits and interest rates, however, have skyrocketed."

Before the House Banking Committee, Treasury Secretary

Prices Blamed

New York (AP) — Eastern Air Lines said that higher jet fuel prices contributed to a net loss of $4.8 million or 26 cents a share in January.

George P. Schultz and Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council testified for the administration's proposal.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the House panel, has proposed extending standby authority to impose controls.

"Your proposals lack any clear definition of what kind of program this administration will pursue to correct the ills that are now plaguing this country in epidemic proportions," he said.

Pentagon Blocking Probe Of Spending, GAO Says

Washington (UPI) — The Pentagon has been hiding from Congress the total amount it spends to support South Vietnam and used bureaucratic devices last fall to block an investigation, the General Accounting Office charged in a report released Wednesday.

The document, dated Feb. 12, was made public by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., who demanded a full inquiry by the House Armed Services Committee in a letter to its chairman, Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

She threatened to pursue the issue through the GAO if he didn't comply.

The GAO report, signed by Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats, said a limited inquiry begun last summer at Mrs. Schroeder's request showed "that DOD's reports to the Congress have not reflected the entire value of contracts" written to buy support services and supplies for South Vietnam. DOD is the Defense Department.

Staats cited a 1972 report that showed the Pentagon had understated by $400 million — more than a quarter of the total — the amount of aid it sent Vietnam in 1971.

He said when the GAO sought last summer to audit how much the Army and Air Force were ac-

Alice Loschen Dies At Age 101

Hastings (AP) — One of Hastings' oldest citizens, Mrs. Alice J. Loschen, died Tuesday at a retirement village. She was 101.

A native of Champaign County, Ill., she lived the past 50 years in the Glenvil and Hastings communities.

Services will be Friday at 2 p.m. at the First St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Survivors include five sons and six daughters, 41 grandchildren, 84 great-grandchildren, and 71 great-great-grandchildren, two brothers and a sister.

When his auditors pursued the matter, they were told contracts let to buy support and services for the South Vietnamese could not be matched with what the Pentagon had told Congress the money would be spent on when it asked for the funds.

Pentagon officials told the GAO that more than one contract could be let for the same service, that contract prices often "vary significantly from the budget price," and that the U. S. Defense Attache Office in Saigon that let the contracts did not always adhere to budget descriptions.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
